This is Pat's Book...

PATRICIA "PAT" WADE 1948-1965

The sails are set . . . the winds do blow

Pat left us her dream;

she took with her our rose.

She will never really leave us.

With us all year was her dream

for this "Cinema."

'Though the Winds of Fate

took her life too soon,

her dream remains forever.

In fighting a battle against the winds of fate,
we achieve the dignity of man

The Winds of Fate

One ship drives east and another drives west
With the selfsame winds that blow.
'Tis the set of the sails
And not the gales
Which tells us the way to go.

Like the winds of the sea are the ways of fate,
As we voyage along through life:
'Tis the set of a soul
That decides its goal,
And not the calm or the strife.

Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Community involvement in school planning was ever his ideal

DR. WILLIAM B. EDWARDS 1910-1966

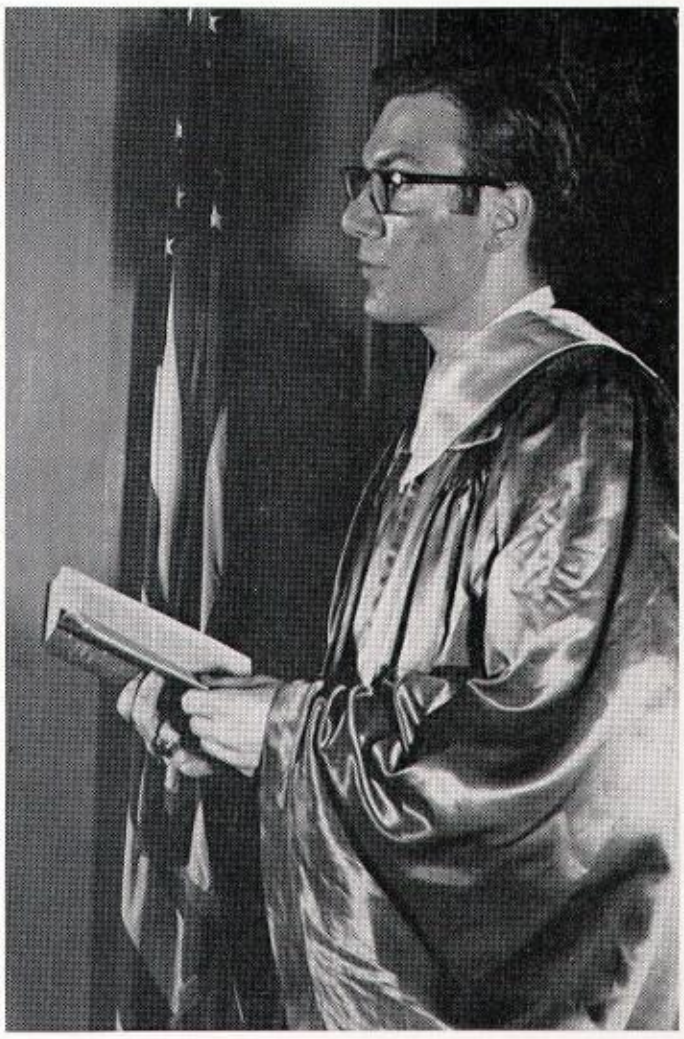
Dr. William B. Edwards . . .

Alumnus who has made the most outstanding contribution to education.

OHIO UNIVERSITY

Dr. William B. Edwards took the helm of the Lakewood Public School system in 1956. With an eye on the future, and with one goal in mind—to give all Lakewood students the best in education—Dr. Edwards worked unceasingly. Active in civic affairs, he was well known not only in Lakewood but throughout the entire nation and even the world for his educational ideals. In 1960, he was one of forty school administrators chosen by the United States Department of State to spend seven weeks in Europe under a Fulbright Scholarship studying educational, economic, and social systems. In 1964, he made another tour of inspection to Europe sponsored by the Educational Research Council of Cleveland. During the summer of 1964, he was a John Hay Fellow in humanities at Williams College. He always shared his experiences with colleagues, students, and community groups whenever it was at all possible in any feasible manner from personal discussions to television panels and a series of editorials in the "Lakewood Post." Above all, Dr. Edwards had a profound interest in every student as an individual. When he died, every student lost a friend. His inspiration is his legacy to all his friends.



Dr. Edwards is honored at school memorial service

So teach us to number our days, that we may apply our hearts unto wisdom.

BOOK OF PSALMS

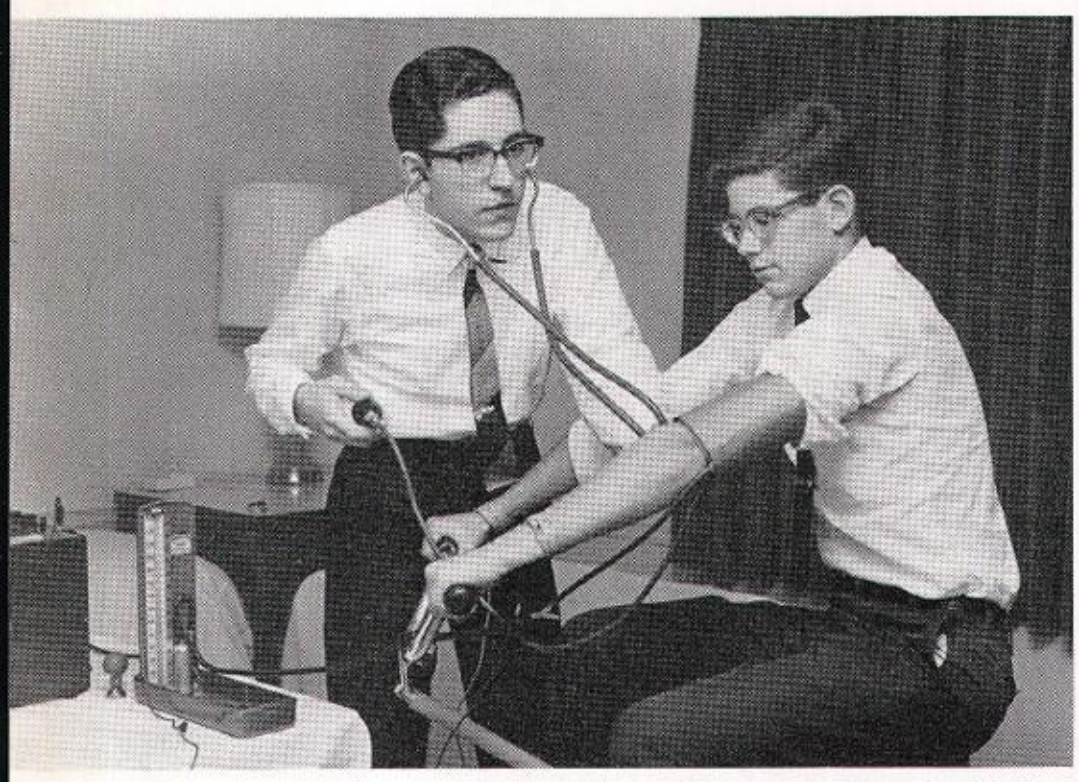
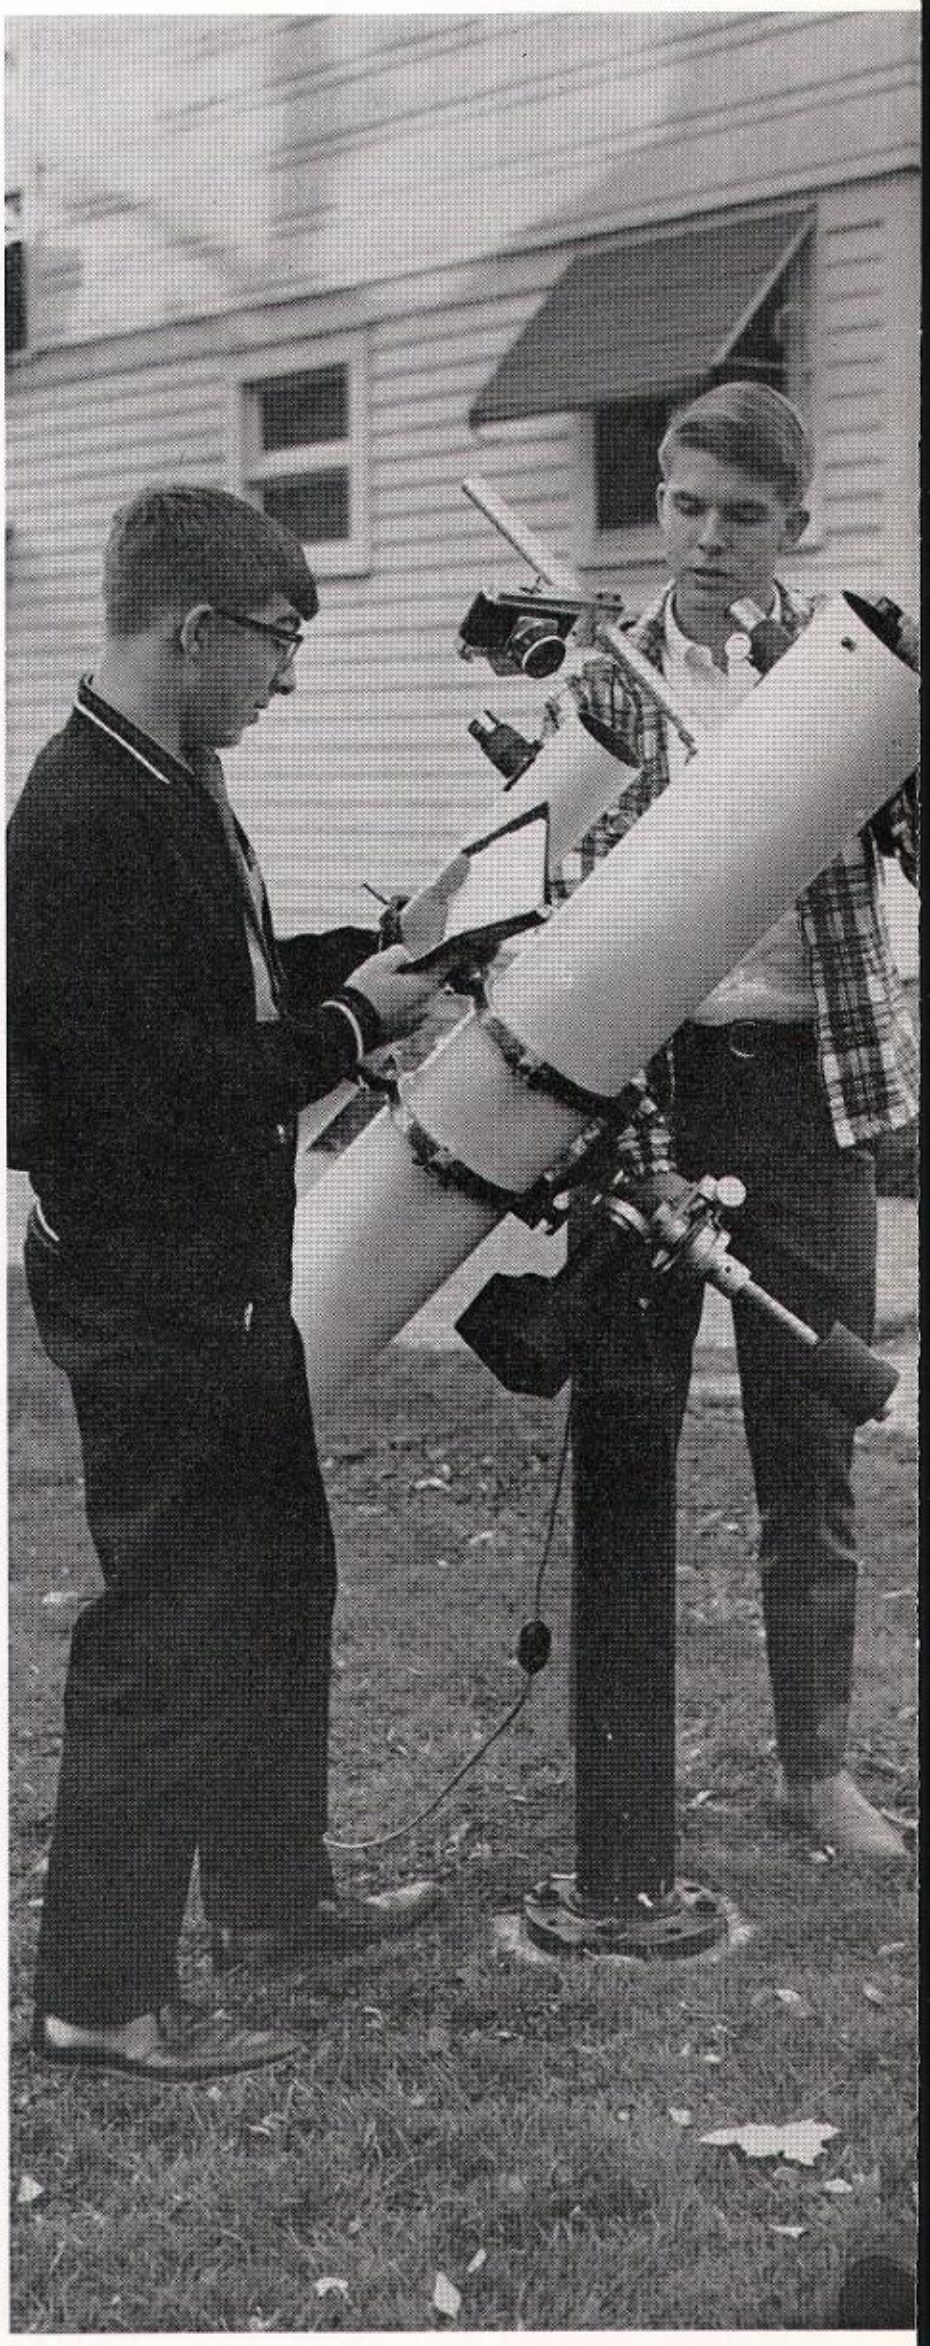
'Like the Winds of the Sea are the Ways of Fate'

'Tis the Set of a Soul
That Decides Its Goal



In a practice run of his electrocardiogram machine, Dan Rotbart registers the heartbeat of his volunteer "patient," Mike Chamot



Through constructing his telescopes, Gary Tolhurst makes a high-powered observation of his future in astronomy

Absolute pitch enables Sue Sprague to tune her viola anywhere without aid of a piano or any other tuning device

Performances in such Signet Productions as "Kiss Me, Kate" and "Plain and Fancy" provide Kathy Conry valuable stage experience

With sling psychrometer, Henry Compter measures the relative humidity of the atmosphere atop his home weather station

'One Ship Drives East and Another Drives West'

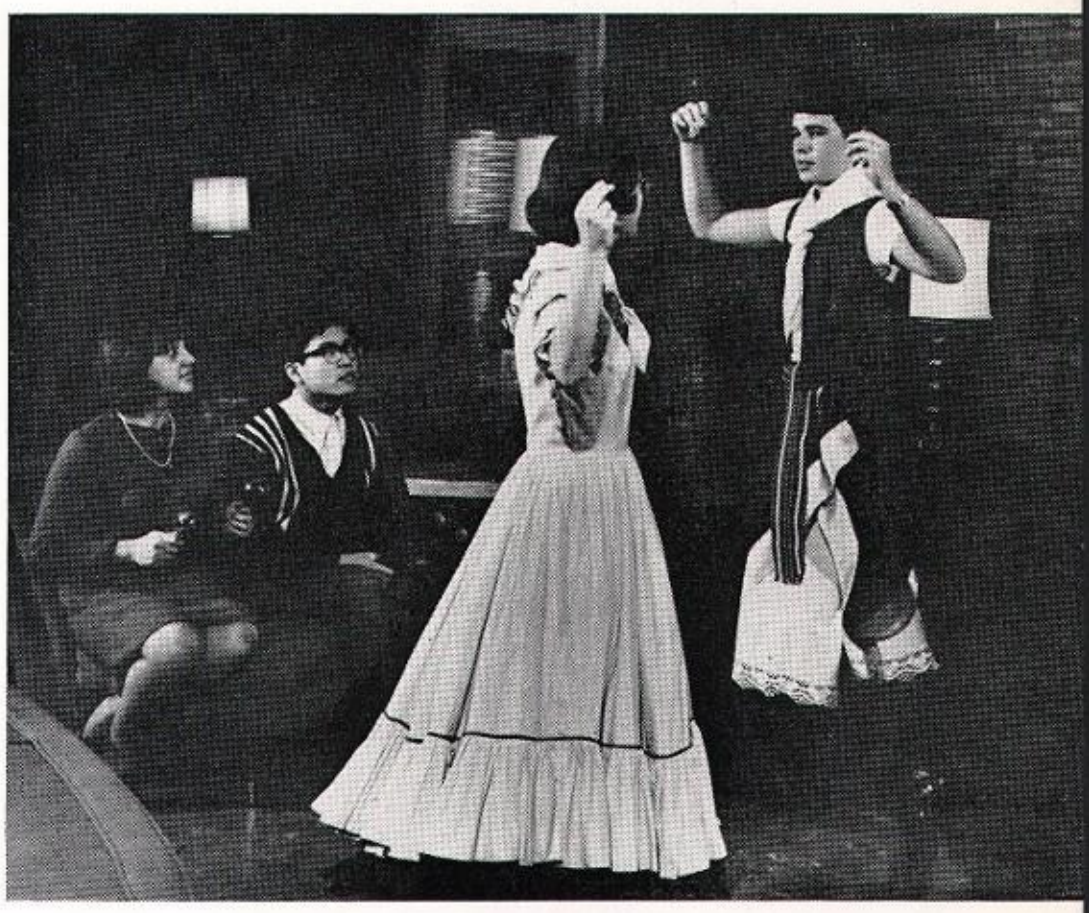
Colorful Argentine dances are typical of things bound to happen when five foreign cultures converge in an informal exchange

Cafe Rue da la Paix, Westminster Abbey, St. Mark's Square—all are relived by mementos

Who am I? Why am I here? Where am I in the scheme of things? What is my destiny? We must search for answers to these questions throughout our lives. Part of the search is the study of other peoples, other cultures, other worlds. Part of the discovery is a recognition of our similarities and our differences. It is not necessary to travel around the world. We can discover the world at home, at Lakewood High School. Japan is geographically on the other side of the earth, but American Field Service and Shigehiro Watanabe have brought the country and its culture to Lakewood. Doris Acuna and the AFS have brought along Peru. Then last summer, Lakewood was transported to Austria through the Americans Abroad Program and Gary Morgenthaler. He has returned home to share his summer in Austria with us. Many other students and many teachers have traveled to most parts of the world and are anxious to give an inside report to anyone willing to share and discover with them. The benefits of travel are mutual to the visitor and the visited. Each learns something of himself from others. In meeting other people, foreign and yet so similar, we learn surprising things about ourselves. Understanding through travel is a part of the vital, long-sought answer to peace—peace of mind and peace on earth. Utopia lies in knowing ourselves and at the same time other people. Understanding is the ship to Utopia, and travel is the guide.

Preparation and the best part—eating strange American foods—are among Doris Acuna's favorite pastimes on the home front

Foot-long hot dog! What manner of food is this? Shigehiro Watanabe shrugs and applies the palate test



Impromptu visits add to the fun of being home after a summer abroad and increase the voyager's appreciation of his travels

Tragedy Ennobles

Attending the Shakespeare Festival as one large English class to see "Macbeth" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" in memorable performances was a privilege this fall. The tragedy of "Macbeth" makes very clear the necessity of a careful setting of our sails when sailing by the "Winds of Fate."

Lady Macbeth's sleepwalking scene reveals the high price of evil . . .

"What's done cannot be undone."

—Act V: Scene I:51

Macbeth personifies the tragedy to himself and to others as he brings ruin through the ruthless pursuit of his own selfish ambitions

"Stars hide your fires:
Let not light see my black desires:
The eye wink at the hand; yet let that be,
Which the eye fears, when it is done, to see."

—Act I: Scene V: 50

Art Display Inspires . . .

CLEVELAND MUSEUM OF ART

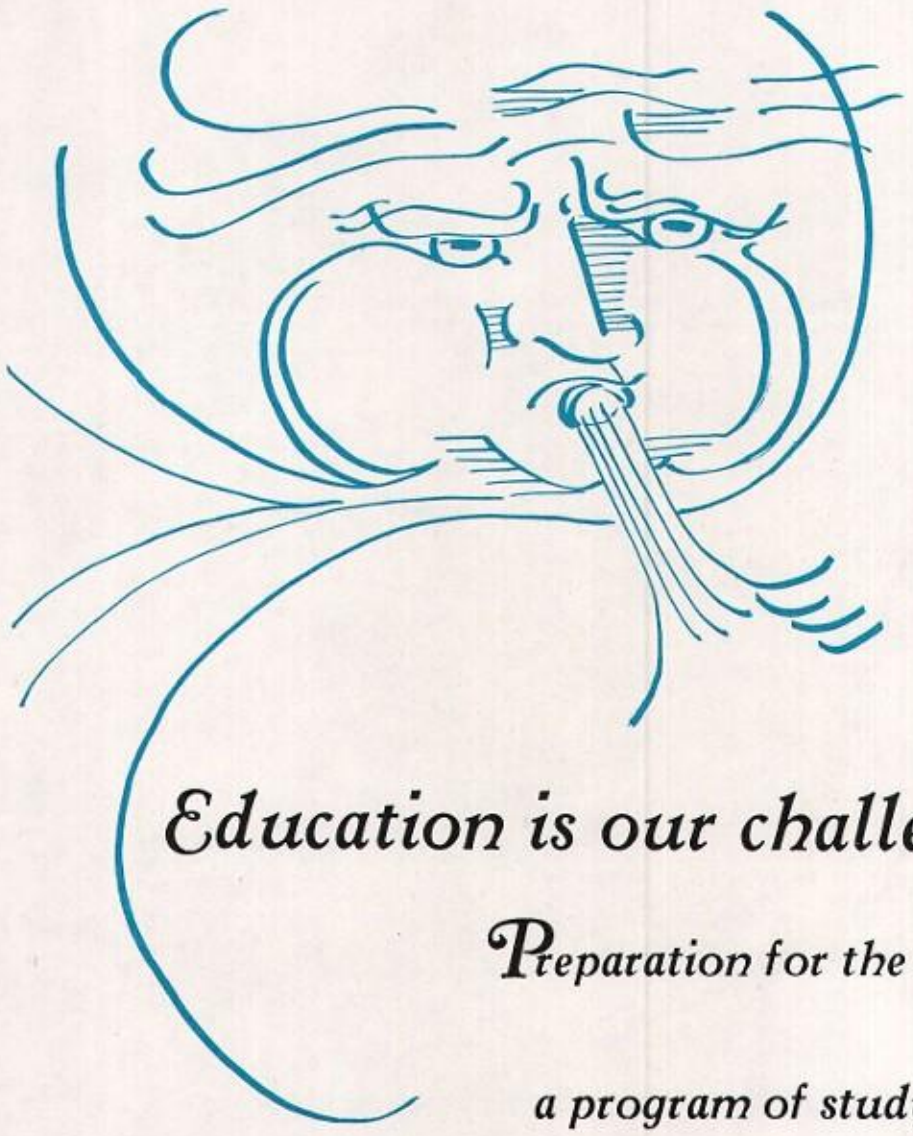
Man's search for spiritual meaning and enrichment must ever be unending

The Winds of Fate . . .



Education is our challenge . . .

Preparation for the future depends on a good education.
Each individual needs to pursue a program of study that gives recognition to his talents and shows a concern for his future.
In our comprehensive high school,
such opportunity is available for every student.

'Tis the set of the soul
That decides its goal . . .
More than . . . the Winds of Fate.

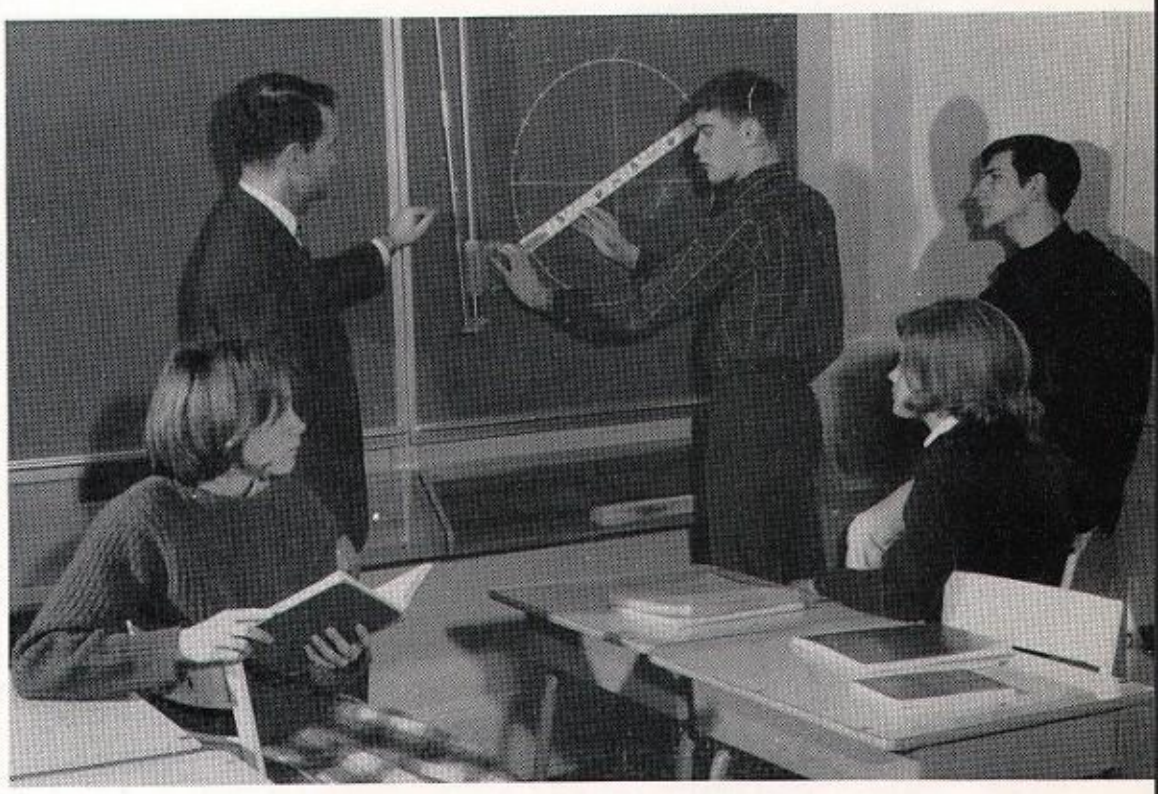
Independent Study: A Unique High-School Program



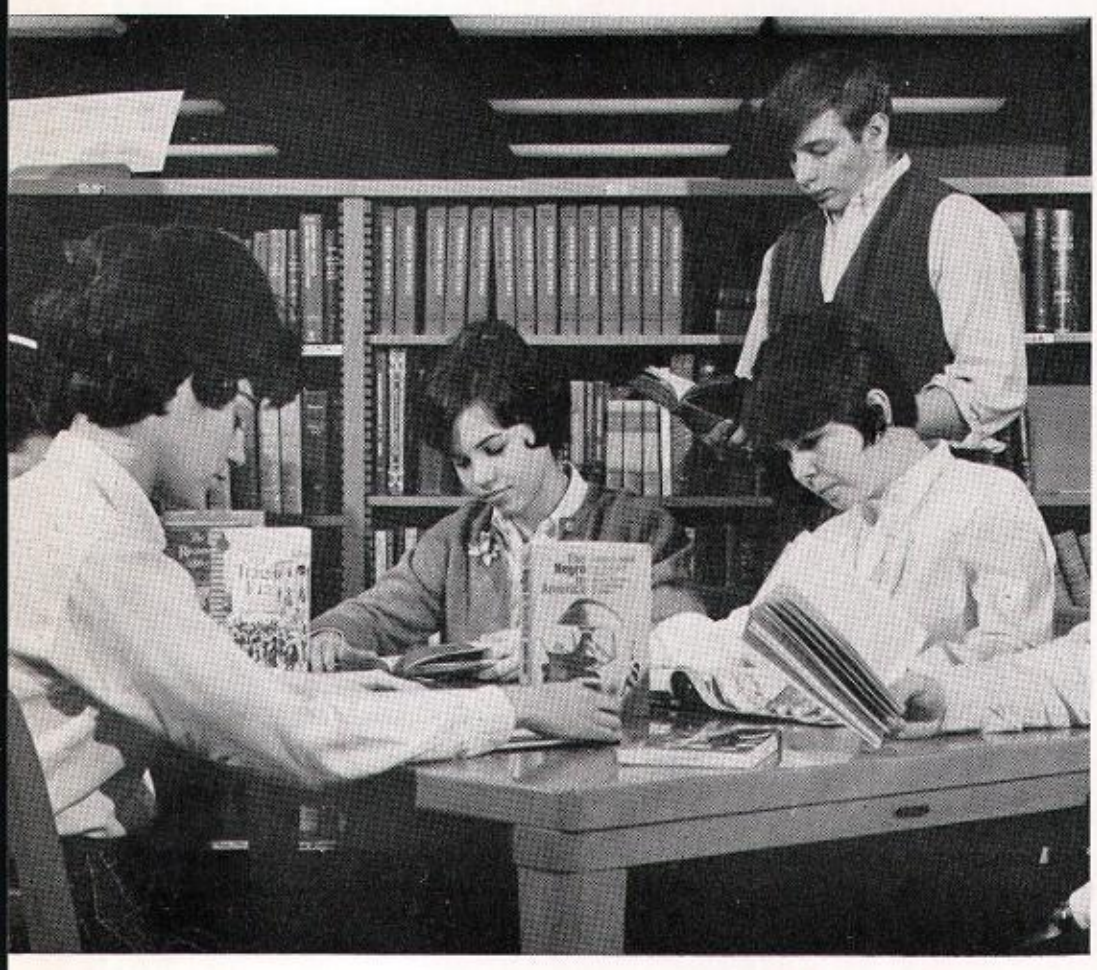
Program supervisor Mr. Paul McGarvey guides Penny Walsh, Ken Hinga, Ray Brigleb, and Sandy Sibbet into self-discovery of trigonometry

Pat Nelson studies current Latin American problems using maps, books, and magazines

Social Studies

Independent study is the latest trend in the social studies department. Rather than just reading the text and listening to the teacher, students find, present, and discuss information themselves. This method not only gives them command of the facts, but also encourages them to learn the techniques of collecting and evaluating information. Increased participation results in more interesting classes and helps teach the student to express his ideas more effectively. While changing its methods of teaching, the social studies department has also kept its courses up to date. Contemporary Civilization and Problems classes discuss and analyze current events such as the national economy or civil rights. American history courses, on the other hand, offer background necessary to study current problems.

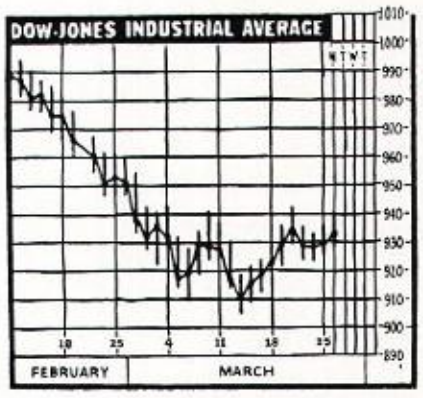
Reading and evaluating classmate's research papers improves Contemporary Civilization student's ability to analyze reports



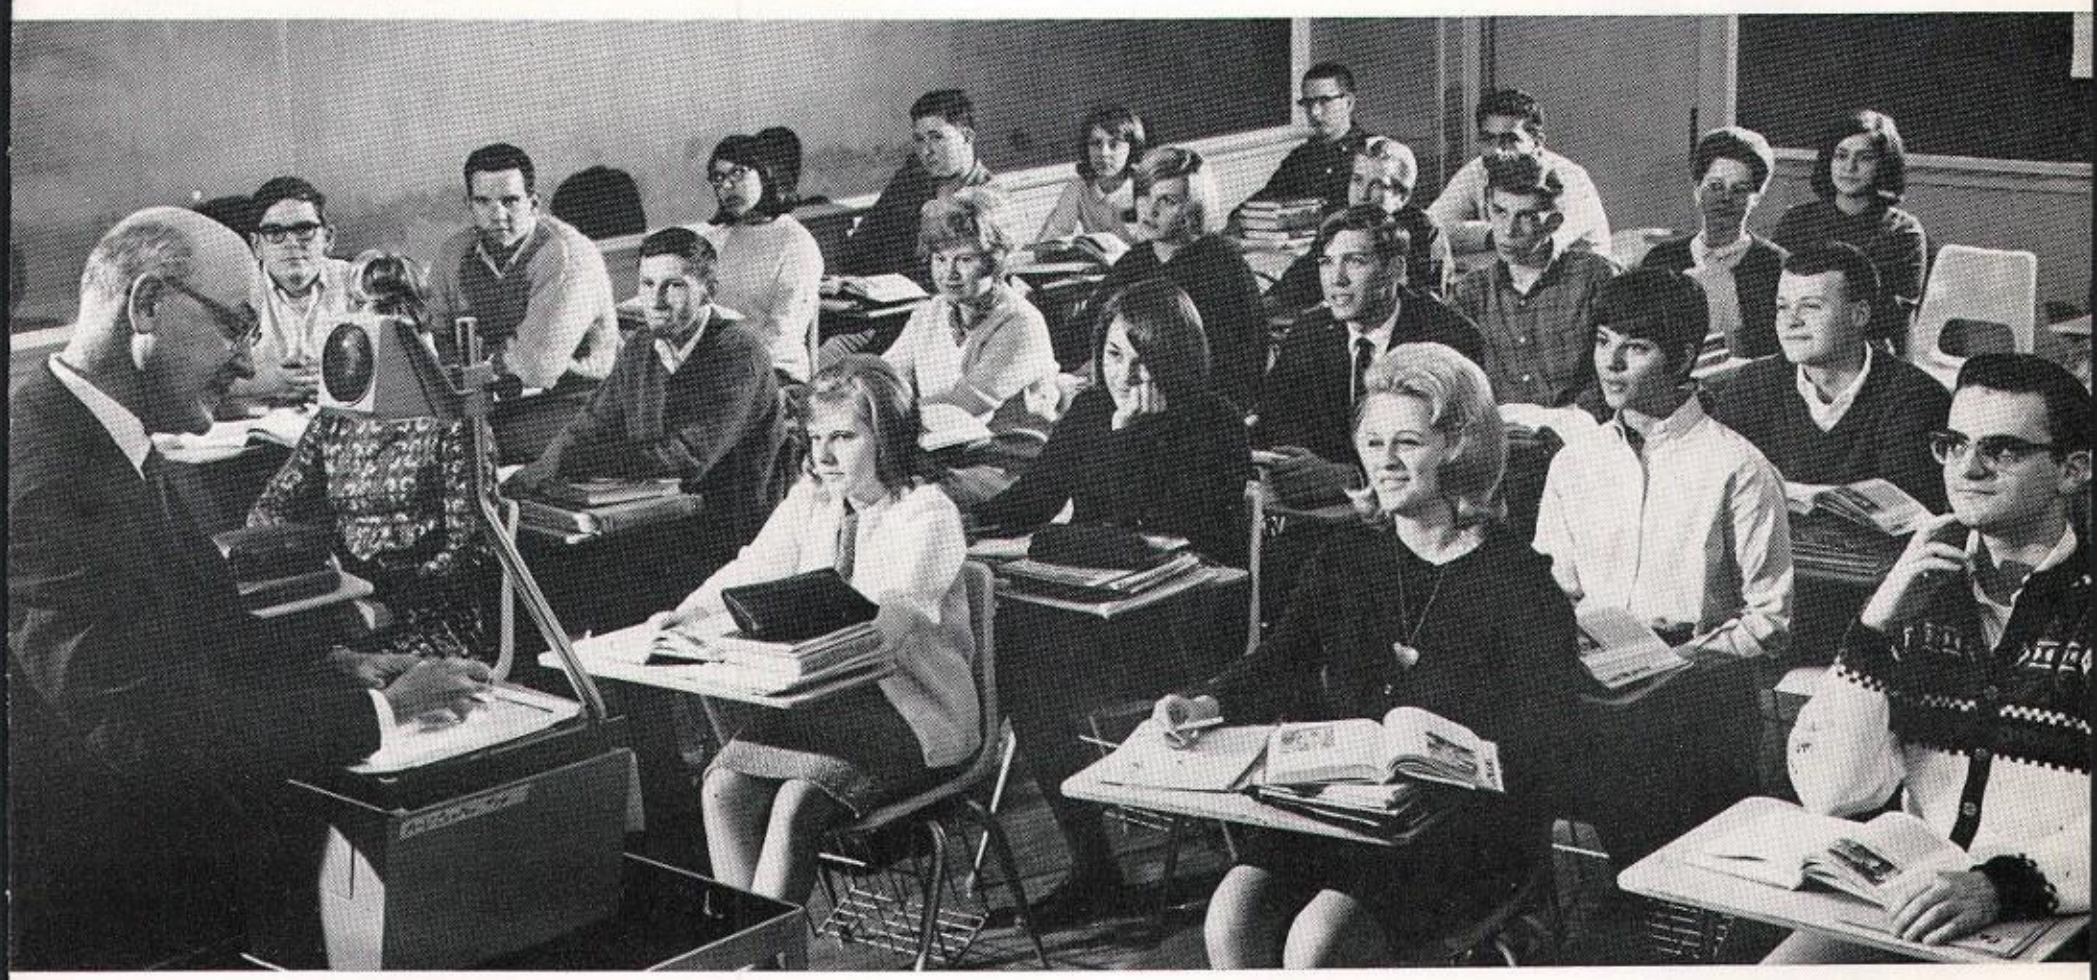
Independent study unit on American Negro occupies Mr. William Hamilton's students of Contemporary Civilization

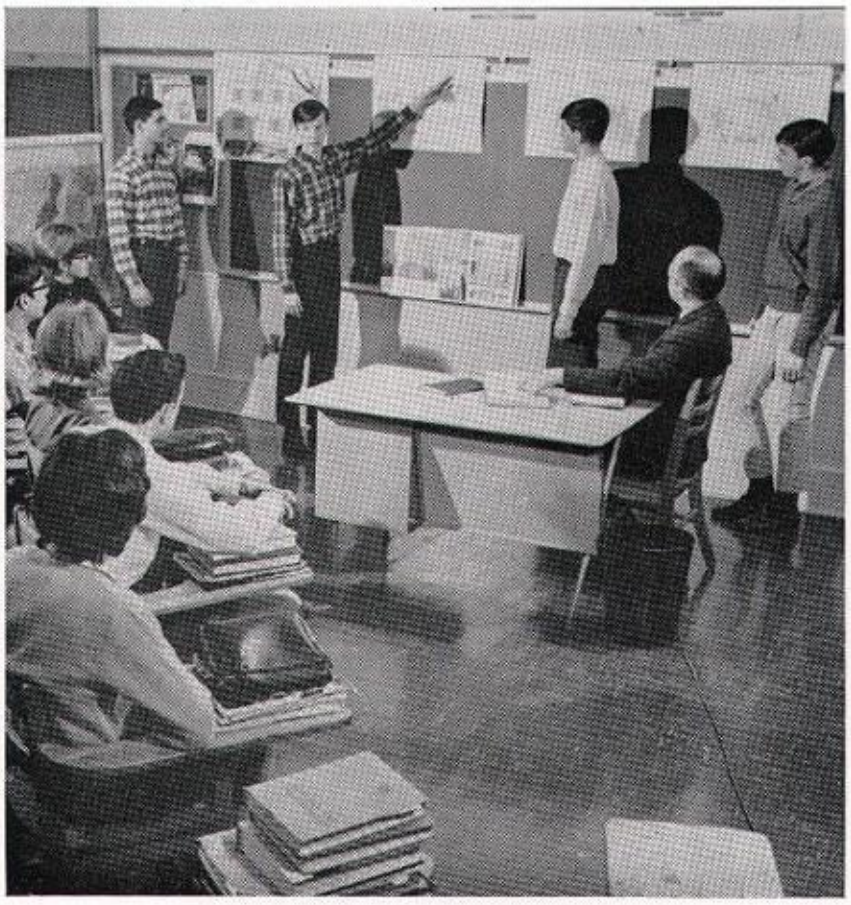
Debate between manufacturers and workers brings the problems created by Industrial Revolution before American history class

Sophomore world history delves into advantages and problems of the European Economic Community's creation and endurance



Mr. Norman Brown explains to his Problems I class daily variations in the stock market and their relation to the national economy





Through architecture and other arts, history classes complete their impressions of colonial life

Correlation of Study Enriches Literature and History

Bringing history to life by the study of complementary literature is the current trend for both sophomores and juniors. English classes enhance history by related literature. That is, as history students watch the landing of Pilgrims and take up the job of colonization, literature students hear Jonathan Edwards, explore with Cooper, and bear arms for Patrick Henry. Sophomores enact the play "Julius Caesar" and memorize immortal lines as they enrich their understanding with a study of Roman history. From this dual-strength picture of life, seniors are ready to assimilate the more than seven centuries of English writers from Anglo-Saxon times to our own. Moreover, problems and social views of life revealed in all literature make them informed for Problems 1-2 discussions.

Communication Of Ideas Emphasized in English

English develops individual expression of thought by the use of new educational techniques and equipment. Three levels of literature encompass the special reading talents of all students. For juniors, a new set of basic textbooks, "Accent USA," highlights interesting modern materials and ideas. In preparation for performances of "Macbeth" and "A Midsummer Night's Dream" last fall, team-teaching increased enjoyment and understanding.

Experimenting with the techniques of flat colors in the style of Gauguin, student artists paint landscapes using opaque watercolors

Art Satisfies

The unique feature of the art program is that the teacher outlines a general project and then allows the student to proceed on his own. Thus, each satisfies his individual creative instincts. General art students explore color and composition. Art appreciation and crafts are also offered. Advanced artists prepare portfolios and design stage scenery.

Music Combines Education and Enjoyment

Every aspect of great musical genius is viewed by music classes as they study great symphonies. For example, the orchestra and bands play arrangements of Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony" while the choirs often sing the beautiful melody of the last movement. In harmony and music appreciation the form, musical theme, and composer are studied.

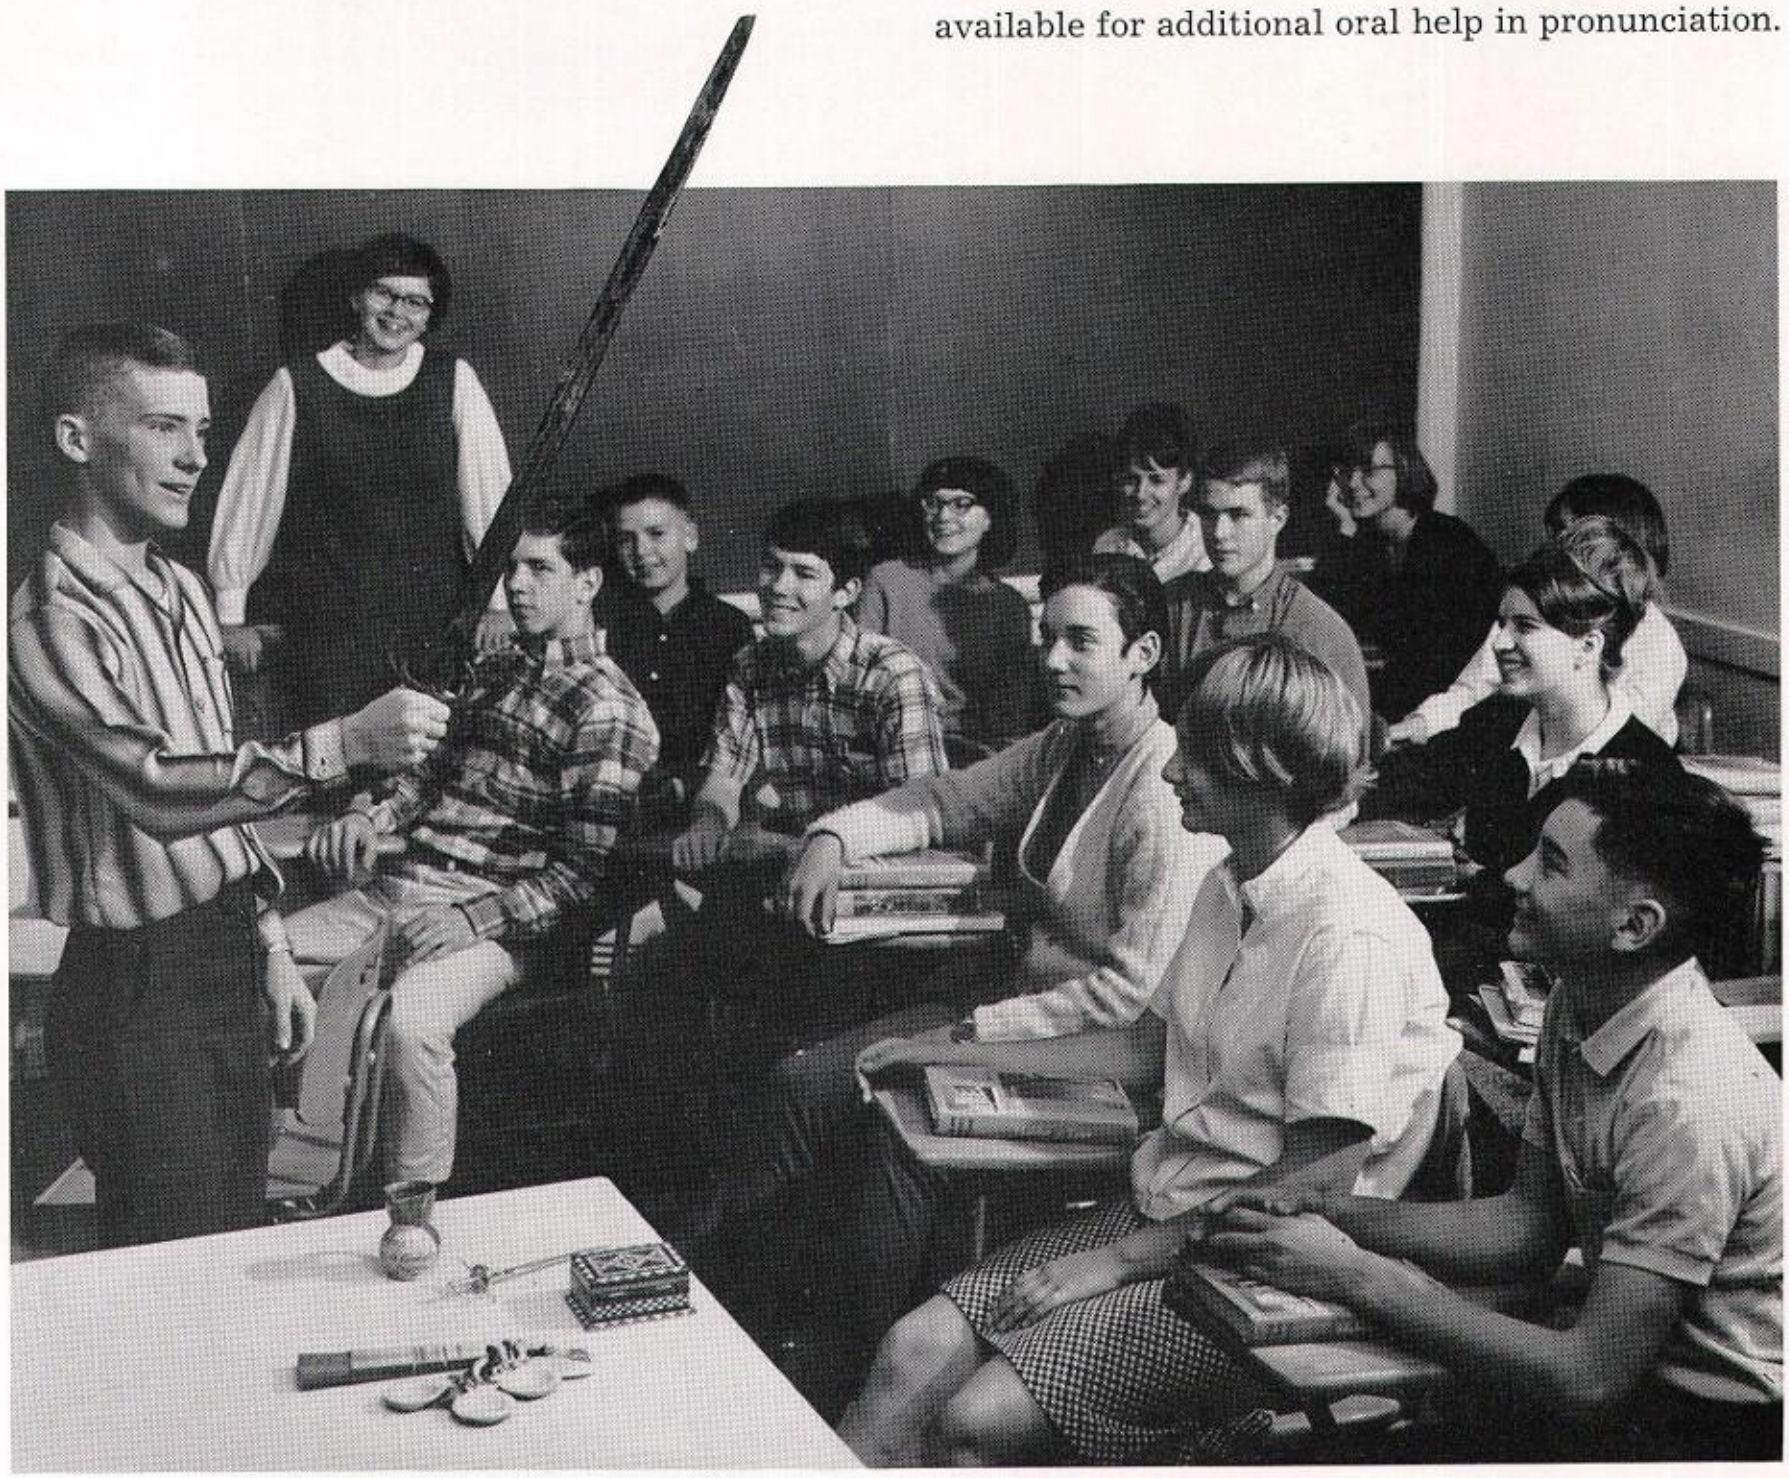
Although just beginners now, many Choir 1 and 2 members may have earned a place in either Junior or Senior choir next year

Bassists Joe Saah and Diane Marr provide important steadying rhythm beneath the orchestra

Volkslieder, or folksongs, entertain as they teach German

Languages . . .

Foreign language classes are designed to enable students to communicate in a different tongue. Newest additions to the curriculum are conversational French and Spanish courses and Latin for third- and fourth-year pupils. Expanded use of visual aids gives variety to classwork and provides an intriguing media for the student to view the cultural aspects of his studies. The language lab is available for additional oral help in pronunciation.



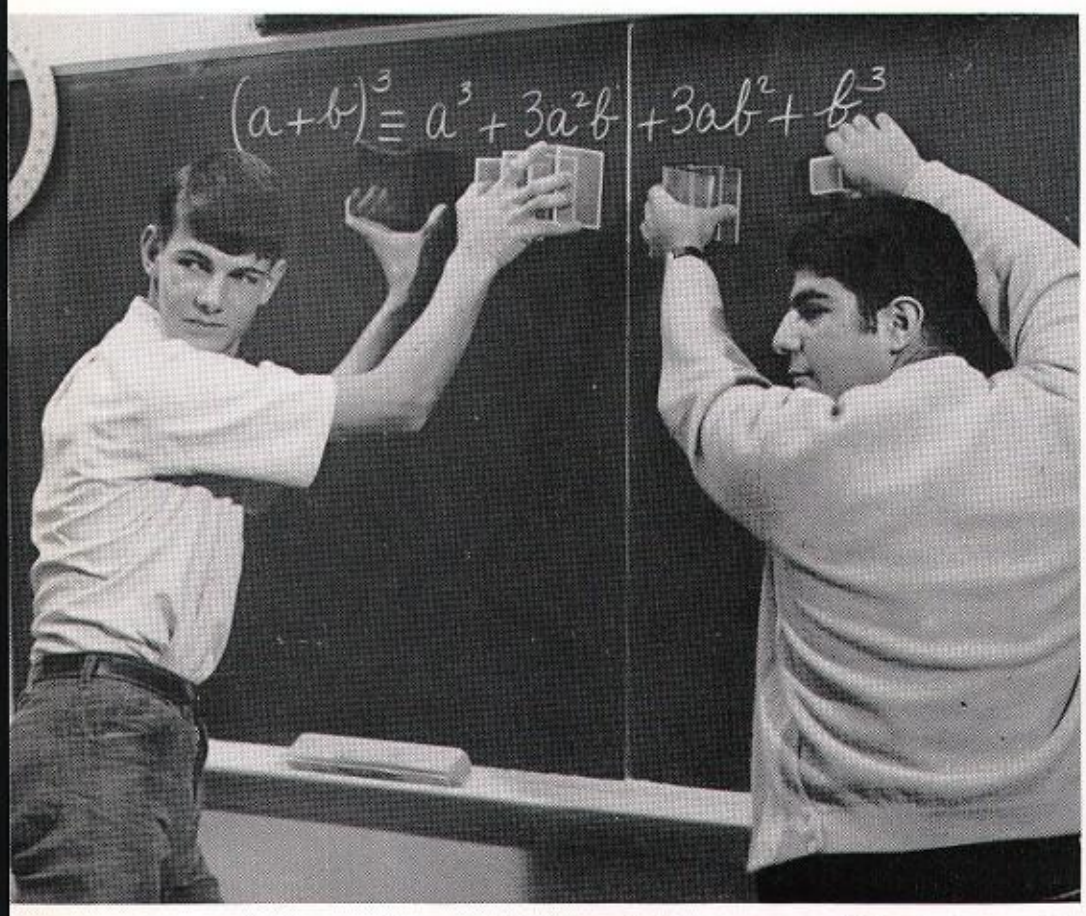
An antique espada, or sword, fascinates Mrs. Seasholtz's Spanish 3 class; the other objects: fans, pottery, and a carved wooden jewelry box from Spain intensify the student's appreciation of literature and understanding of cultures of the Spanish countries

Skill developed on modern accounting machines builds a sound foundation in business techniques for future commercial workers

Basics for Business

Extensive commercial courses offer much to budding business workers. Modern accounting machines and new bookkeeping, sales, and shorthand techniques keep the students well-informed. Shorthand flashcards aid in memorization of brief forms, and new dictation records give trainees practice in transcribing at faster rates. IBM machines give valuable experience for prospective computer workers. The various skills developed in these courses build a firm base for future careers.

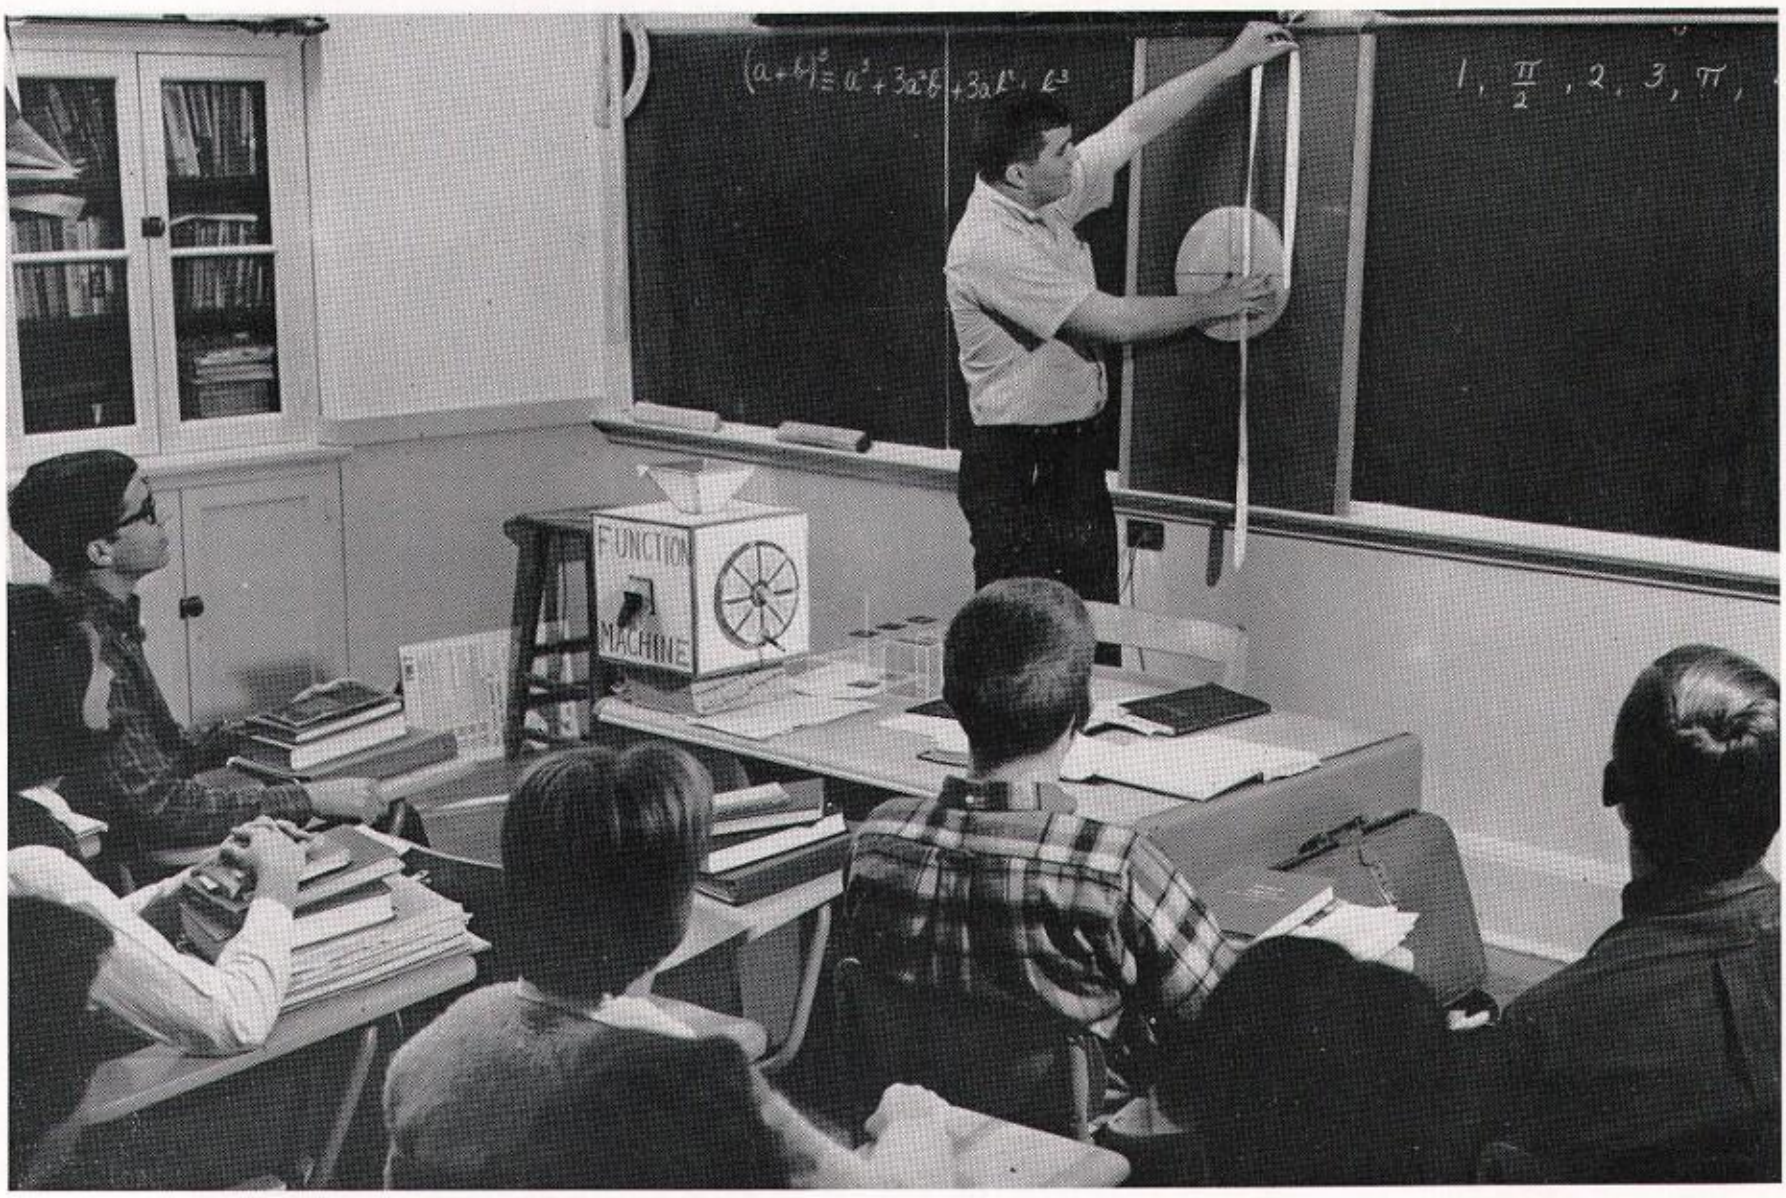
Students carefully observe the technique of selling products which may be of future value



Cubic equation model demonstrates one correlation between the physical world and the abstract world of mathematical equations

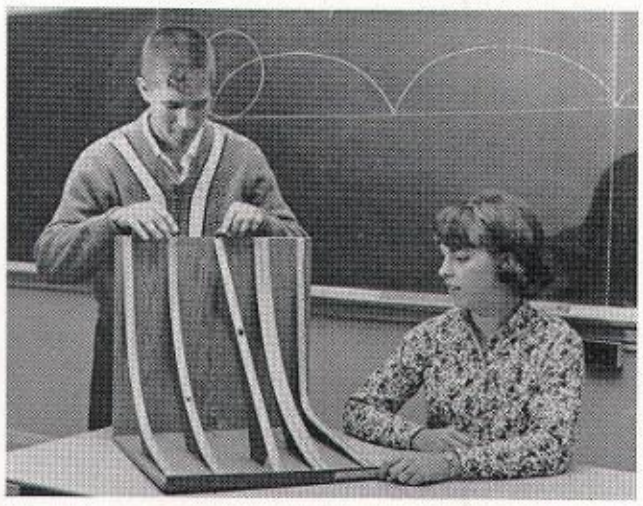
Models Used To Demonstrate Math Principles

The mathematics department has a wide selection of courses to satisfy students with various interests in mathematics. Advanced students may take courses including calculus and probability. Others may find algebra, geometry, or trigonometry sufficient. The emphasis in all math courses, however, is on learning to think clearly and originally rather than to memorize a few formulas or operations.



Circular function model illustrates properties of sines and cosines; "function machine" clarifies concept of functional notation

Specially-designed blackboards and equipment in the new mathematics lab permit easier and more accurate graphing of equations



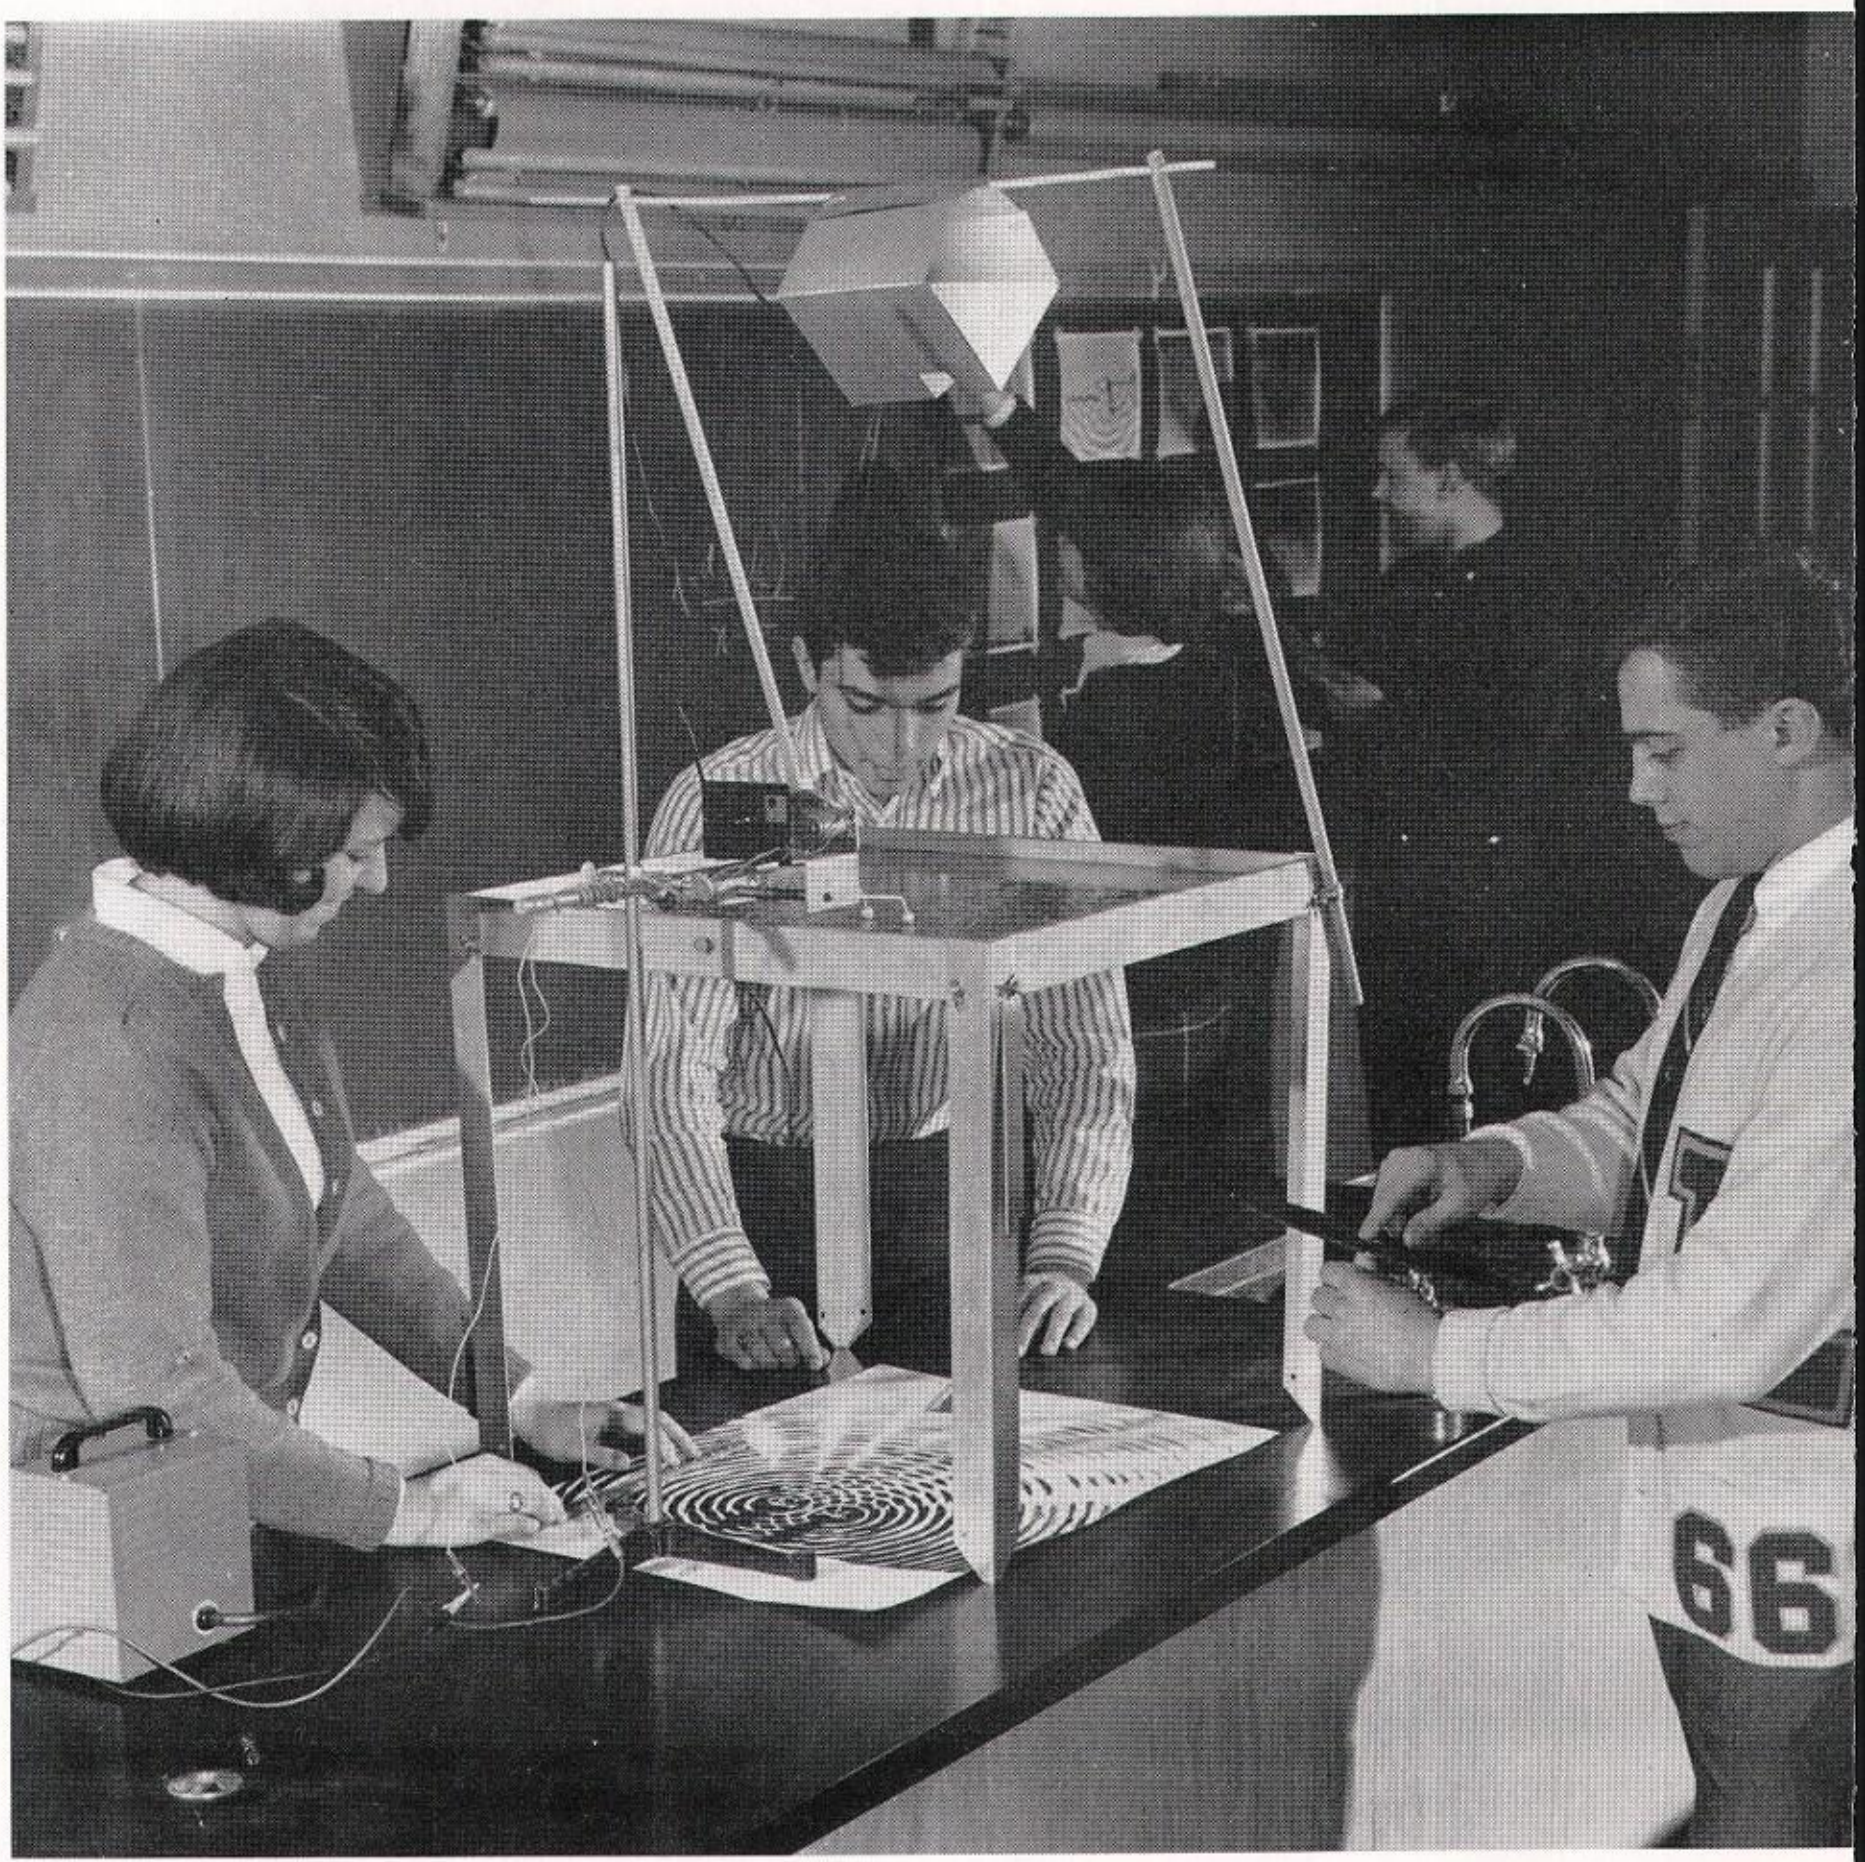
Experiments illustrate the properties of curves

New Lab for Math

Learning mathematics is easier and more enjoyable with the new mathematics lab in room 329. Special blackboards and desks with coordinate planes printed on the tops permit students to graph functions quickly and accurately. An overhead projector allows the teacher to show clearly many important mathematical principles. Clarifying concepts and speeding solving of problems, math lab accelerates and simplifies mathematical learning.

PSSC Physics Builds With Concepts

PSSC physics with calculus has expanded to include two classes, scheduled three consecutive periods. Stressing original and creative thinking, physics problems help students to develop basic principles themselves. Mathematical concepts in calculus with topics in physics speeds learning in both subjects and permits study of advanced topics.

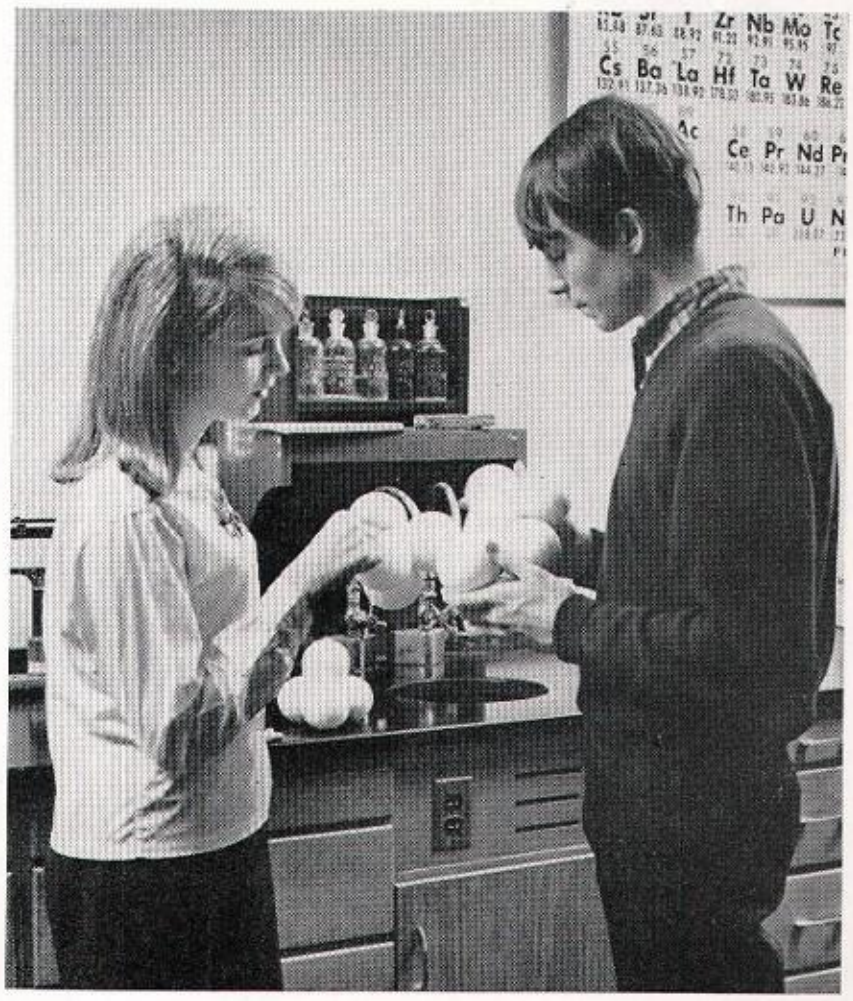


Ripple tank experiments with water waves demonstrate periodic wave properties useful in explaining many characteristics of light

Mr. Jack Irey prepares to detonate his "hydrogen bomb" in an experiment showing reactions of various mixtures of hydrogen and air

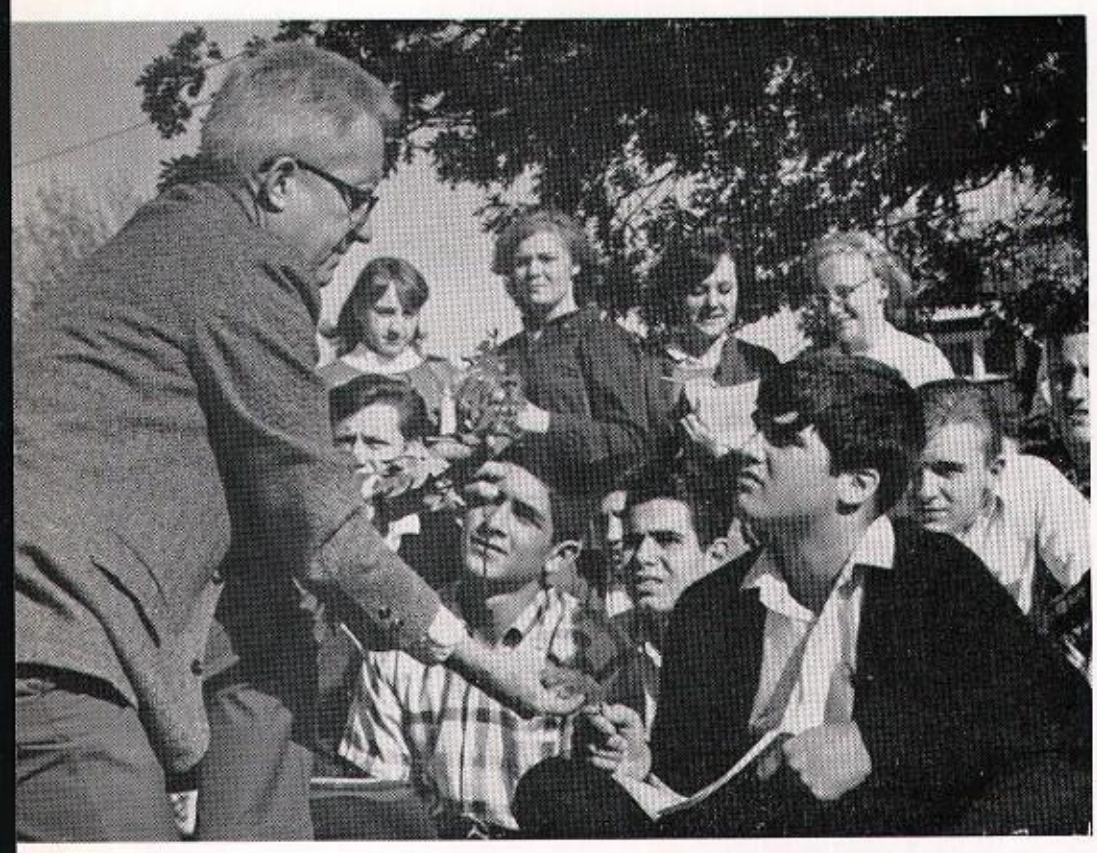
CBA Chemistry Highlights Atomic Structures

A few principles rather than a long list of formulas now occupy the spotlight in modern chemistry. The CBA, or chemical bond approach to chemistry, emphasizes the structure of atoms and molecules. Reactions are explained on the basis of properties found in atoms. Experiments show how to solve problems rather than repeat solutions to old ones.



Styrofoam spheres are used to represent electron charge-clouds in models of atoms or molecules

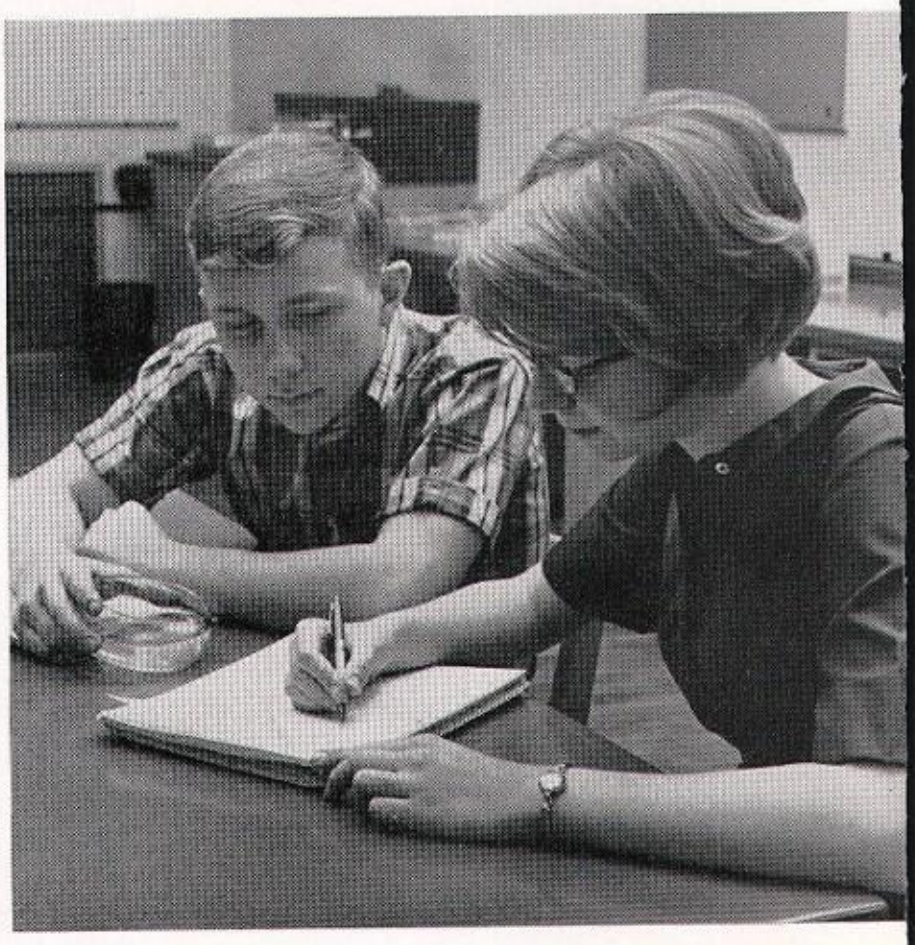
Greenhouse brings horticulture experiments to the classroom



Mr. Ralph Rood explains to his BSCS biology class how to use the characteristics of leaves to identify and classify trees

Biology Uses Experiments and Observations

Practical experience and valuable information are gained in biology department programs. BSCS Biology, a new course comparable to PSSC Physics and CBA Chemistry, emphasizes inter-dependence of living organisms. During lab periods students make observations and then try to interpret what they have seen. Horticulture provides training for students especially interested in plants. The greenhouse permits students to experiment with plants throughout the year and makes possible experiments requiring a considerable amount of time. Physiology, of special interest to students planning medical careers, emphasizes the structure and function of animals. Laboratory includes both observation and experimentation with organisms.

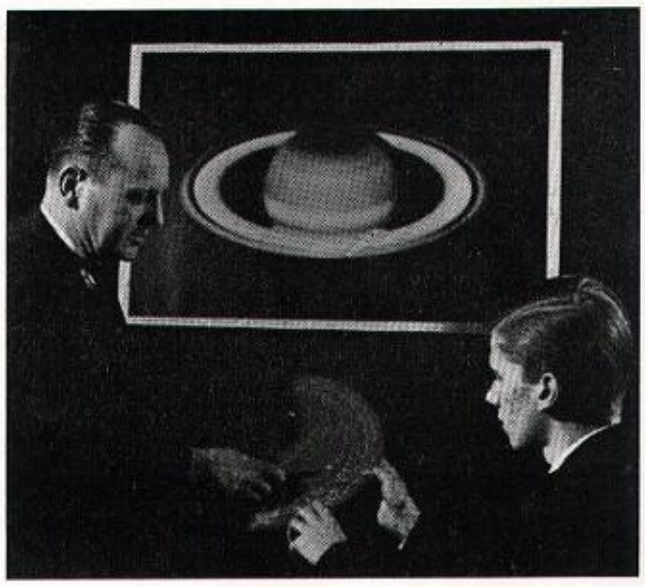


Physiology students record daily observations of the growth of a chicken embryo

Using a transparent sphere showing the positions of the stars, Mr. Alton Yarian explains how astronomers locate objects in space

Busy Schedule Is Standard for Planetarium

Planetarium demonstrations form an important part of astronomy classes and aid many others. By central projectors, Mr. Alton Yarian can show the sky as it appears from any point in the northern hemisphere at any given time. Models help simplify complicated astronomical patterns. Besides high-school students, many junior-high students, adults, and visitors to Lakewood come to the planetarium.



Solar system model displays planetary motions

Industrial Arts Offers Technical Opportunities

Knowledge obtained through experience in the many areas of industry helps the student find his interests for a future vocation. While gaining saleable skills in graphic arts, electronics, hot metals, drafting, or power mechanics, the student finds the type of work most challenging to him.

"Ramming-up" a sand mold of a pattern prior to casting it in aluminum is one fabrication process learned in hot metals instruction

Mr. Ivan Mowry insists on close tolerances and highly accurate work as a student demonstrates the operation of a horizontal mill

Proficiency Acquired

Industrial Arts exposes students to organizational patterns used in industry. Special attention is given to safety and efficiency, the two most important industrial standards. Actual experience provides an understanding and appreciation of processes, tools, and materials. Advanced equipment enables students to become familiar with some of the more complex industrial processes. Of course, training gained in industrial arts courses is also valuable to students planning non-technical careers, as it forms an important part of a good general education.

Vacuum tube and transistor circuits must be carefully checked

Home Skills Prepare for Family Management

Home economics courses provide training in cooking, sewing, and management of the home. Foods classes not only teach the art of cooking, but also stress the basic concepts of nutrition and meal-planning. Home economics often overlaps with different courses. A controlled experiment which tested a mouse's adaptability to different diets correlated the study of nutrition to biology. When studying foreign foods, classes worked in cooperation with the language department to create proper atmosphere. In tailoring, girls are given an opportunity to model clothing they made. Management emphasizes care of home and family.

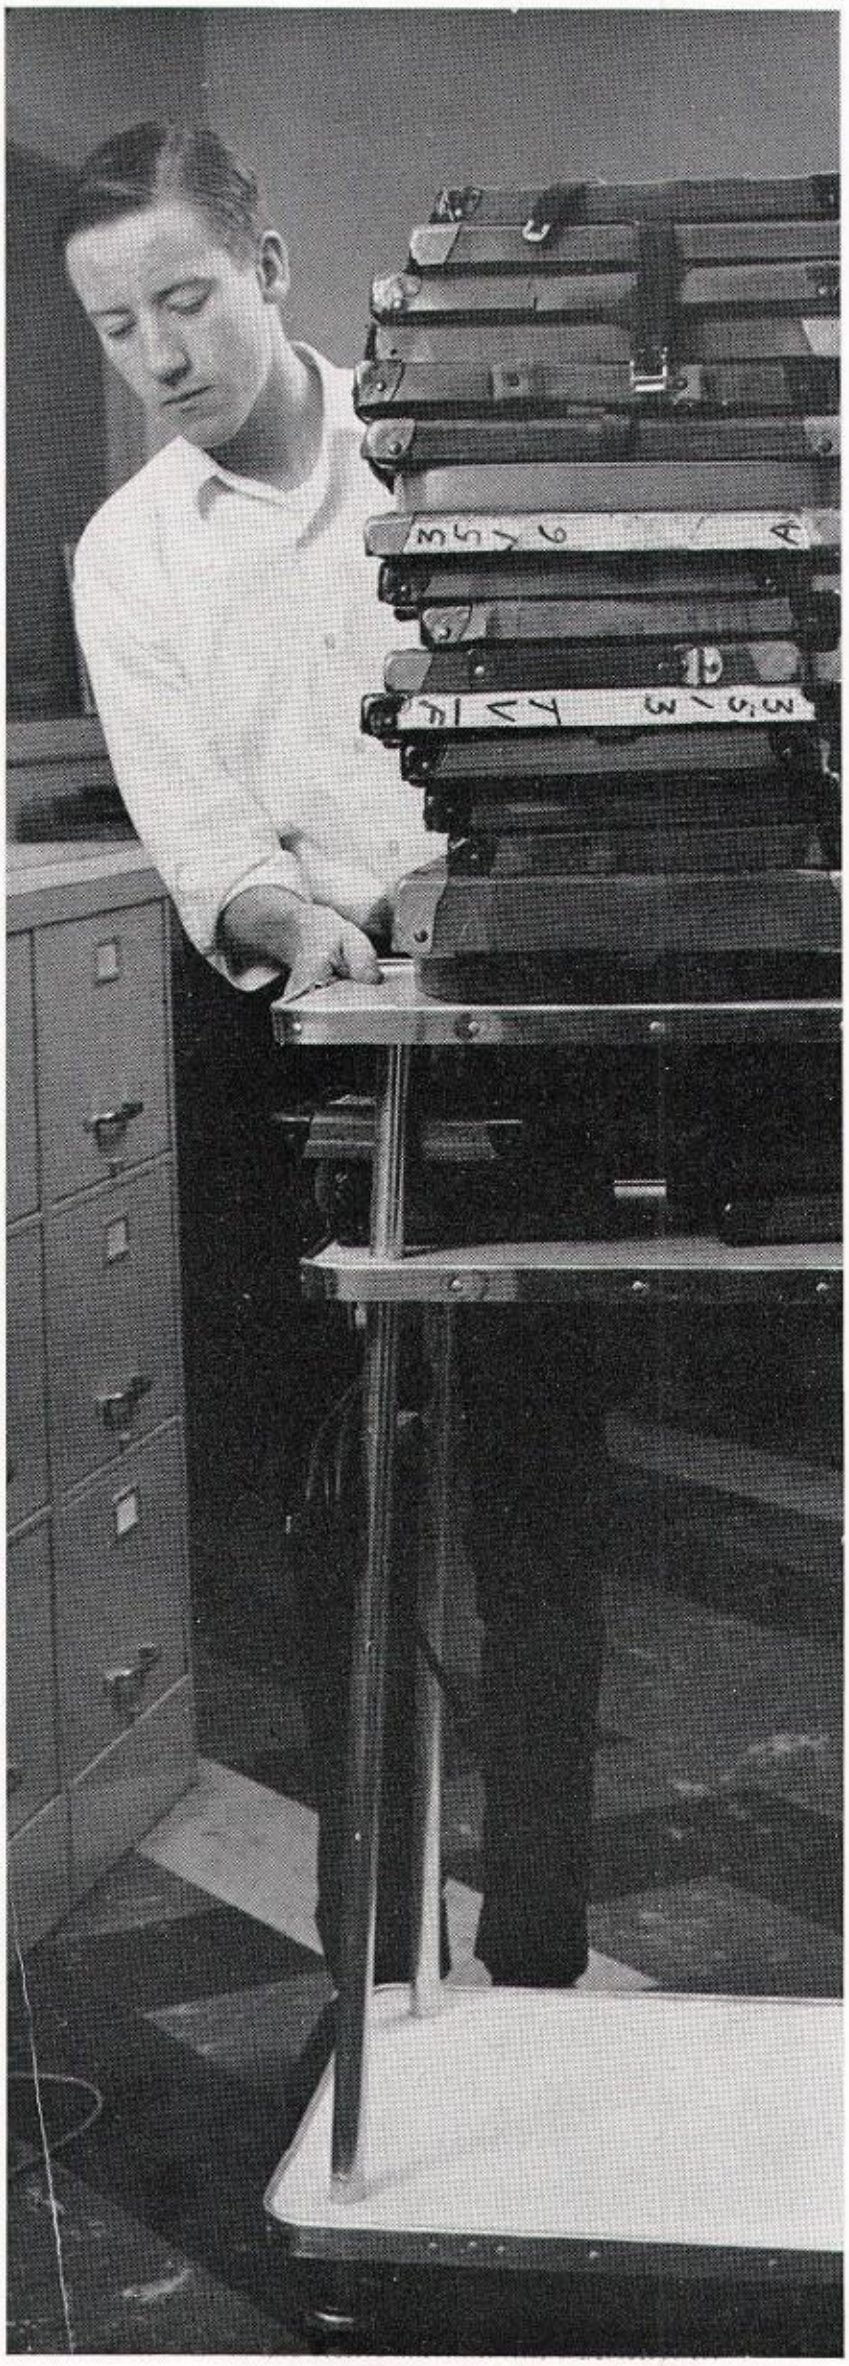
Go-Ahead Signal Shifts Range Into High Gear

With progressive development of the new driving range, students receive valuable training in the operation of an automobile. The textbook phase teaches maintenance of the car, traffic laws, and basic steering technique, while on-the-street and simulator courses aid trainees to apply knowledge.

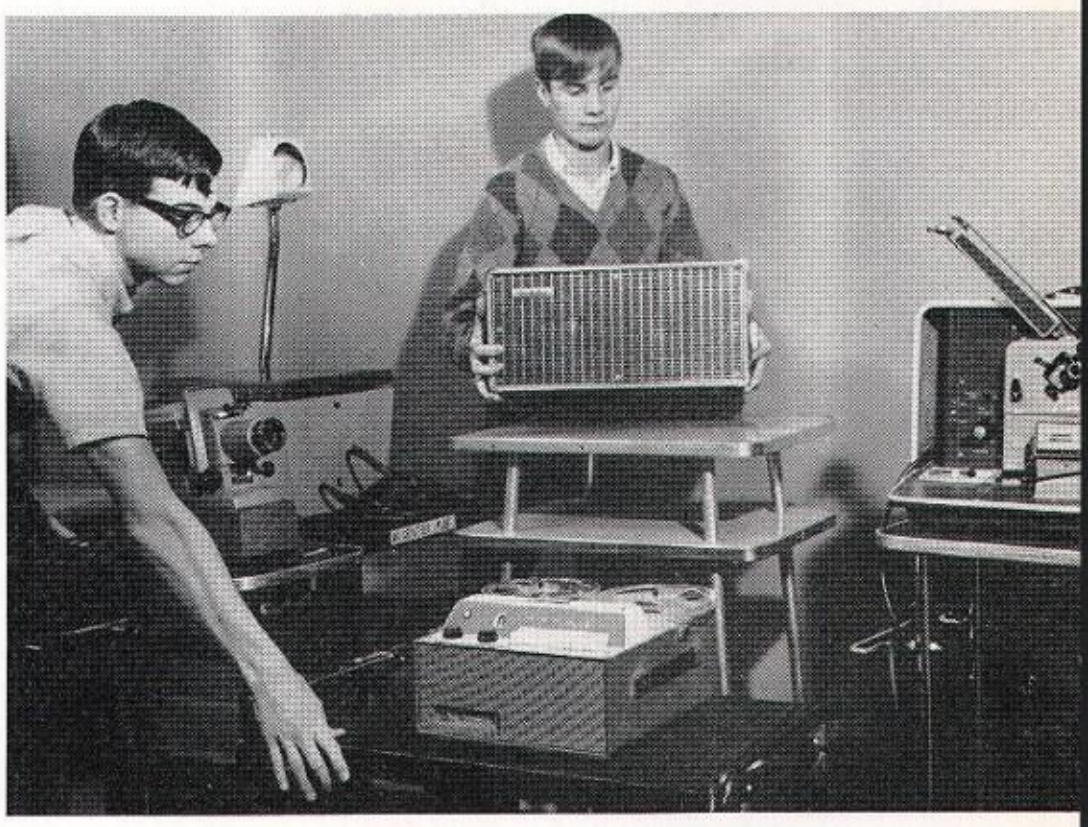
After systematically adjusting mirrors and fastening seatbelts, alert students prepare to drive defensively in their simulators

By actual driving experience on the range, the amount of nervous "brake-downs" in learners decreases daily



Instructional Materials

Audio-visual requirements for assemblies and classes are handled through the Instructional Materials Center. Motion pictures, filmstrips, slides, overhead projectors, record players, tape recorders, cartridge viewers, and duplicators are all available.



Audio-visual equipment is required in world history assemblies

Thermofax duplicator produces exact copies

Films rented or borrowed by the Instructional Materials Center are carefully repacked in protective cases before they are sent back

Health Services

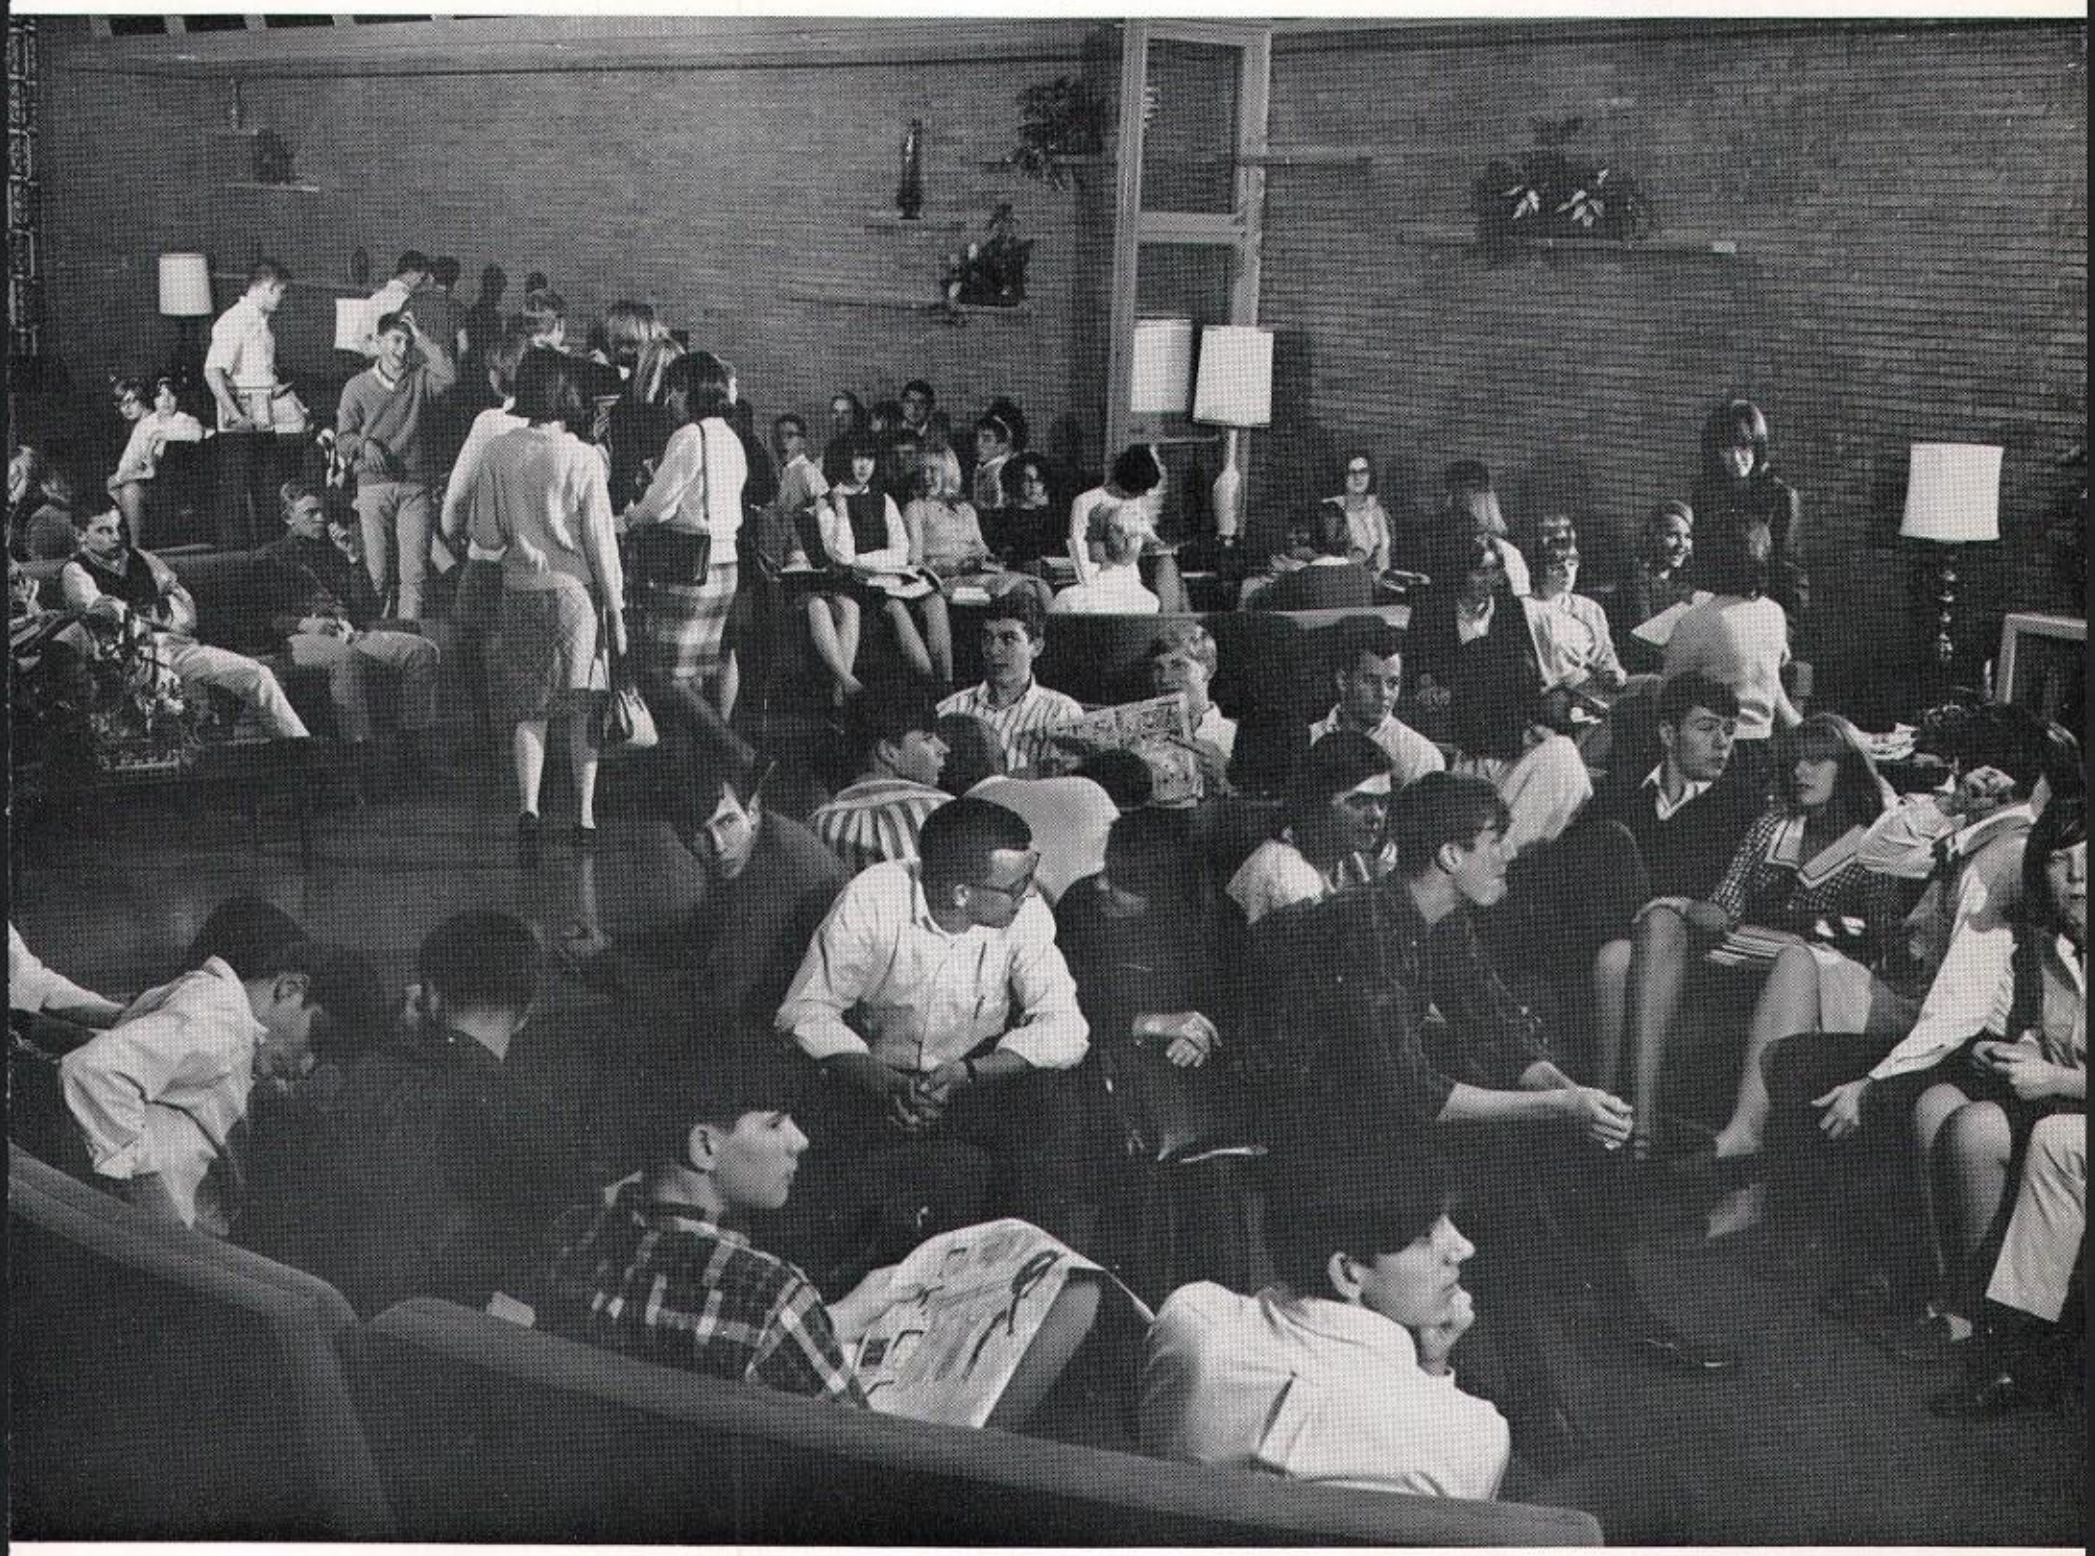
Emergency first aid is a basic service of the Health Center. Directed by Mrs. Lava Garrett, R. N., the center also runs a series of tests from vision checks to physicals for athletes and sophomores. A record of facts needed in counseling is kept for all students. The overall aim is promoting good health.

L-Room Thrives With Constant Student Traffic

Gladly trading desks for the L-Room's soft couches and chairs, students meet friends while enjoying food from the snackbar and listening to popular records. Homey atmosphere invites club meetings, school parties, and post-game dances. Carols around the annual Christmas tree add to the festivities of the season. This room is truly the focal point of activities for students, faculty, and community.

This "mob scene" is an ordinary sight at the L-Room snackbar

Gossip, gay music, and shouts of greeting create cheerful bedlam as friends gather in senior circle or in relaxation upon plentiful chairs



Boys' PE Builds Muscles, Health

Boys' physical education is designed to benefit everyone. Major emphasis is placed on developing health and physical fitness. Daily exercises, including push-ups, sit-ups, pull-ups, rope climbing, and running develop muscles and help the circulation. Sports such as basketball, wrestling, and various types of relay races not only are fun but also improve skill and coordination. While physical education classes aim primarily to help the average student, anyone with special abilities is encouraged to participate in special conditioning groups or to work on special talents before or after school.

Balance and poise are aided by various stunts performed on high beam and apparatus

Coordination and toning of all body muscles is stressed on the trampoline as girls gracefully project themselves into mid-air

Healthy Bodies Maintain Alert, Active Minds

Girls' physical education gives each girl the needed daily exercise to keep her trim and fit. A wide range of activities is offered during the year. Selection of courses takes place at the beginning of each semester when girls can choose the sports that interest them. Every sophomore girl is required to take six weeks of health and six of driver's education. All girls must complete two sessions of swimming before graduation. In all, gym classes are the answer to physical needs of today's girls.

To give each student the same amount of food for his money, workers carefully cut tantalizing pies in pieces of equal size

S-s-steam heat cooks vegetables in small quantities to keep delicate flavor and preserve that melt-in-your-mouth tenderness

Behind the Walls Of the Busy Cafeteria Kitchen

Cafeteria workers arrive early to perform their daily duties of food preparation. Cleanliness and good order are always the rules of the kitchen. After having measured dry ingredients the night before, cooks blend these into pies, cakes, and rolls. Helpers boil whole, sliced, or chopped vegetables just until tender; then they serve them hot to hungry students. From giant refrigerators women take fresh meat and prepare it with lightly seasoned sauces. As soon as the bells ring for lunch hours, students file past counters of food attractively displayed in a variety of color, form, and taste.

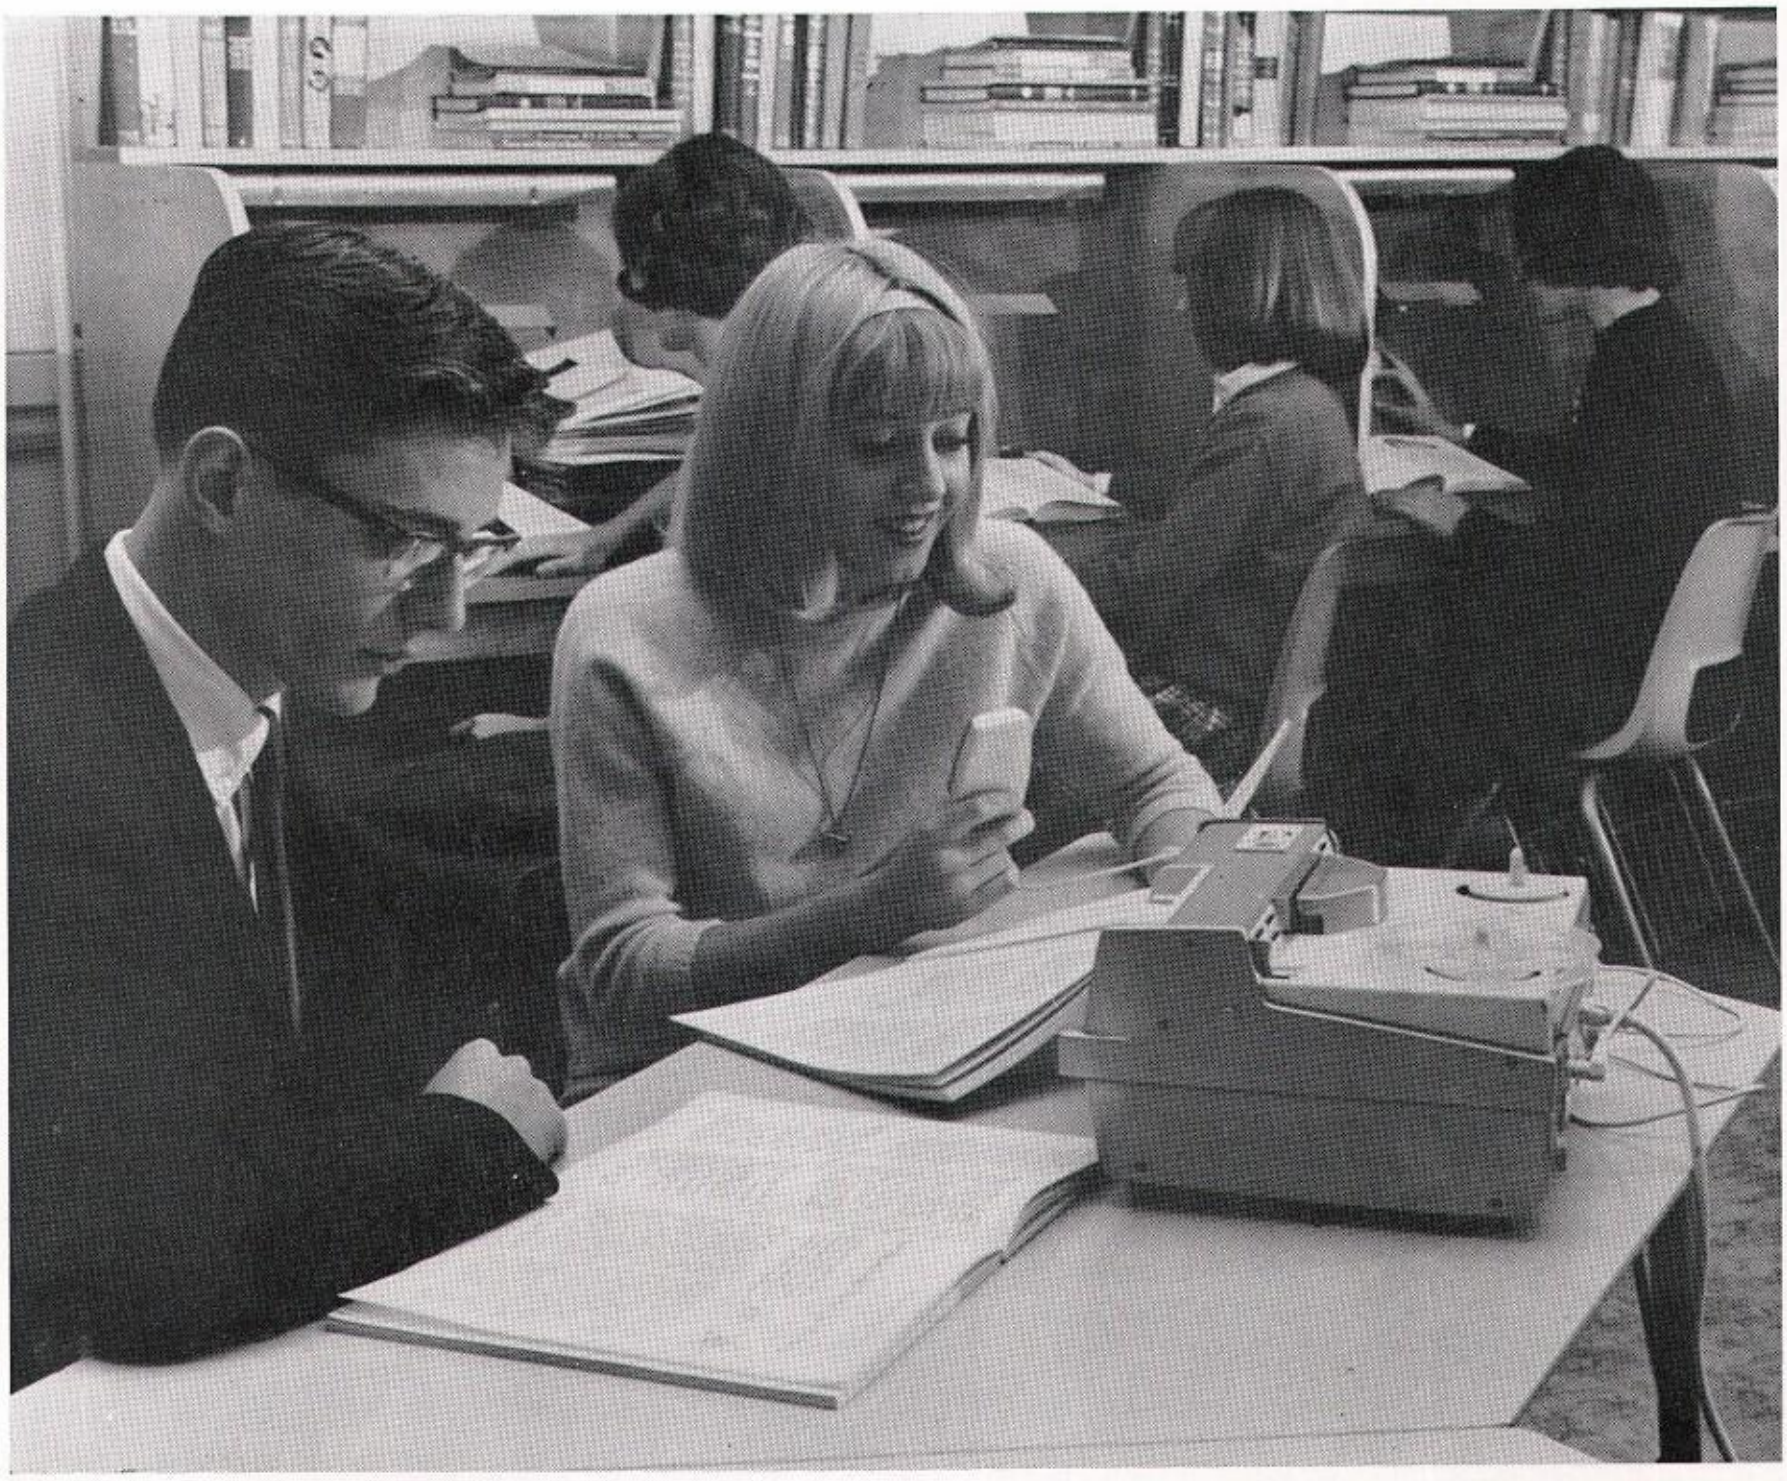
Push-throughs end trips from kitchen to counter

When hunger strikes and lunch hour finally arrives, the best possible remedy to take is either the cold or hot lunch line

After buying meals, candy, sandwiches, and milk, students enjoy a leisurely nutritious lunch in the informal atmosphere of the cafeteria



After making recordings of their voices, reading students like to replay the tapes several times as a means of improving their diction

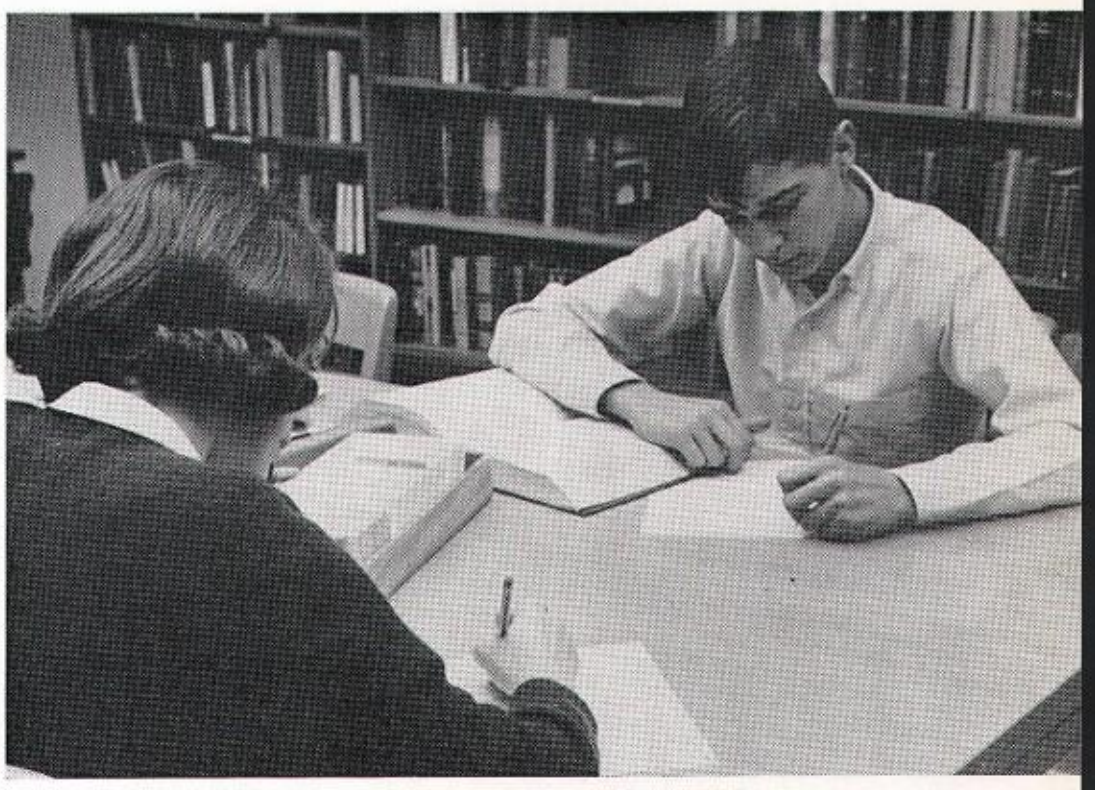
Reading Habits Can Make or Break a Student

Prescriptions to remedy poor reading and study habits are available in the Reading Center. The Center attempts to revive poor readers through a ten-week course of concentrated therapy and practice with reading pacers, timed essays, and lectures. Mr. Anthony DiBiasio, Center director, advises even good readers to have an annual check on their skills. This year, a few English and world history classes started a developmental course. Good reading habits maintain intellectual health.

Library aides stamp overnight books from the reserve alcove for students researching investigative themes and projects

For Study, Silence Is Golden in Library

Approximately 15,000 books for classroom study and recreational reading fill the shelves in the library. Teachers, as well as pupils, frequently go to the adjoining reserve alcove—a division designed to keep track of books in special demand. Study carrels and tables are arranged in the best possible manner to insure private study. In addition to the before-and-after-school use, our library becomes a quiet study hall during regular class periods. During this time, many students relax and enjoy reading a magazine before their next class hour.



With the card file and Reader's Guide at their fingertips, Eileen Swarthout and Al Yeckel save valuable study time in the library

Because college catalogs and biographical dictionaries aid students in their individual studies, the library merits an "E" for efficiency

Lakewood Board of Education

Maintaining high education standards is the continuing aim of the Board of Education. They are ever alert to the need of attracting and keeping top teachers and providing good facilities.

After managing school finances in recent years as the assistant superintendent, Dr. Paul E. Spayde assumed the position of Acting Superintendent following the sudden death of Dr. William B. Edwards at the end of the first semester. In his position as Acting Superintendent, his background and enthusiasm are of infinite value as he strives to do what is best for the youth of tomorrow.

Mr. Povenmire, LHS Principal

Delighted at the achievements of Lakewood students and teachers, Mr. Mahlon A. Povenmire clears the deck for promotion of all worthwhile interests of the school. In close communication with academic trends, he is also keenly aware of most athletic and club activities. His vitalizing enthusiasm sets the tone of the school from stem to stern.

Skilled Advisers Handle Special Group Situations

Student problems come in many shapes, sizes, and forms, and counselors must specialize in different fields to meet each situation. Mr. Ulrich aids college selections with personal interviews and College Night. He also coordinates testing and handles scholarships. Mr. Reiley supervises all schedules and report cards through data processing. New students are enrolled by Mrs. Baldridge, while Mr. Degyansky controls selective service registration. Seniors confer with Miss Latto for guidance.

A Big Task: To Help One to Help Himself

The counselors' doors are always open, and students frequently barge into their offices to confide heartaches as well as plans for the future. Miss Spinneweber, eleventh grade and vocational guidance counselor, and Miss Roeder, twelfth grade, National Merit, and advanced-placement counselor are both sympathetic listeners. They must view problems through both the eyes of an administrator and of the student involved. Usually expecting a shoulder to cry on, students are made to examine, then resolve problems in a different light shed by omniscient counselors. This is the function of counselors—to help the student to help himself.

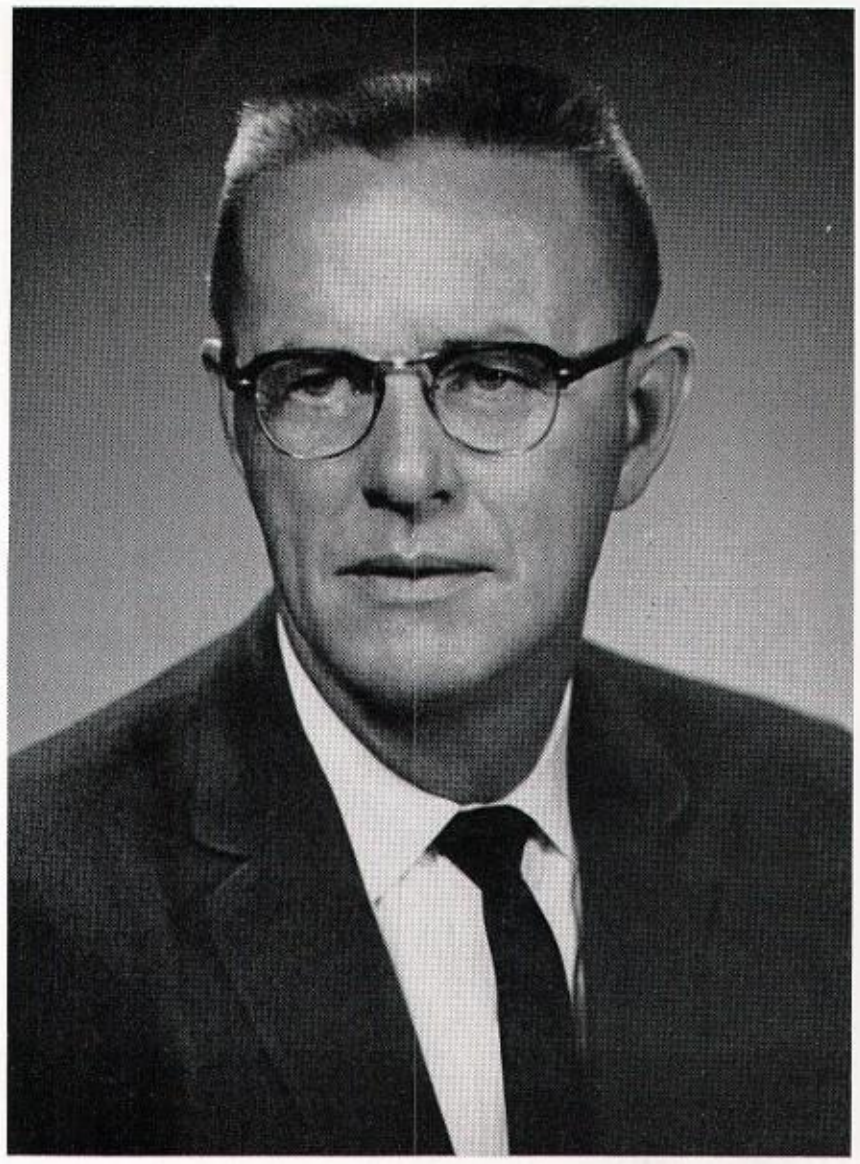
In Memoriam . . .



Mr. William James Scullion

This past summer Mr. Scullion slipped silently into death. "Jim" Scullion—coach, counselor, man—was cut a notch above the ordinary. As a coach he had the rare ability to fire up a team before a meet. As a counselor he was friendly to every boy who came into his acquaintance. Since he arrived in 1943, patience and understanding made him one of the most revered persons at LHS. As a person he was unique in that he tried everything in his power to make life more enjoyable for his fellow man. Mr. Scullion left behind memories and deeds to endure.

Mr. Glenn T. Boruff

Sadness came to many former colleagues and students on November 20, 1965, as Mr. Boruff, former LHS chemistry teacher, passed away at the age of 72. Joining the faculty in 1928, he became head of the Chemistry-Physics Department in 1931. A well-rounded individual, he was interested in history, geology, foreign languages, athletics, and chemistry. His classes were alive and rich in the history of science. A sincere philosophy on life and scientific talent won Mr. Boruff the love and respect of students fortunate to have him as their teacher.

Michael Yaster
Head Custodian

Custodians Keep School in Top Condition

Students don't realize or appreciate the role the custodians, men and women, play in education. Without them, education would be substantially hindered, if not impossible. Maintenance of the building includes many fields of work. Some of the tasks involved in maintenance are keeping classrooms and halls swept and orderly, repairing lockers and plumbing, doing yard work, and keeping locker rooms, washrooms, and the cafeteria clean and sanitary. These duties and many more make LHS a pleasant and comfortable place to be.

Appointed head custodian in January, Mr. Charles Prickett checks over the schedules of work with his assistant, Mr. William Ross

Mr. Michael Yaster, custodian for 20 years at LHS, retired in '65

Mrs. Emily Marchin, at the swimming pool, hands out towels and suits to swimmers

Two Faculty Men Promoted

Appointed to new positions were Richard Beyer, as Assistant Principal in charge of instruction, and Miles Reiley as Administrative Principal. Mr. Beyer's new position deals mostly with curriculum. He supervises the instructional materials center at LHS, counsels teachers, and coordinates the areas of social studies and English with the junior highs. Mr. Reiley's new duties include operating data processing for the junior highs and LHS, and supervising routine operations of the building and secretarial staffs. Also, during 1965-66, Mr. Reiley continued his job as counselor of the senior group.

Mr. Reiley's appointment includes the duties of Office Manager, Miss Klaameyer's position until her retirement next October

Mr. Beyer strives for up-to-date teaching by using new curriculum

PTA Cares About Youth Welfare

PTA objectives are to promote the welfare of youth in home, school, church, and community, and to develop the student physically, mentally, socially, and spiritually. In PTA, parents, teachers, and school administrators unite to direct these goals in constructive programs. Members learn of new teaching methods, curriculum changes, and school program needs. They discuss and act upon problems such as the aims of education, financing, and teaching conditions. Members hope that through the PTA better parent-teacher-student relationships and support of the schools will be obtained.

At a PTA cabinet meeting, 1966 presidents, Dr. and Mrs. Myron Pardee confer with Miss Agnes Cope, second vice president, and the outgoing PTA presidents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Hooper

National Honor Society Inducts 108 Members of the Lakewood National Honor Society honored 108 seniors at the induction assembly held November 10. Miss Edna Kleinmeyer, NHS adviser, explained the meaning of the Honor Society symbol saying that it stands for outstanding achievement in scholarship, character, leadership, and service. The design—a reflecting shield and a lighted torch surrounded by the letters of the four qualities considered—has special significance. To the left of the torch are coupled "C" and "S" to signify that scholarship should be directed by fine qualities of character. To the right are joined "L" and "S" to remind us that motivation for the highest leadership should be service. The lighted torch is symbolic of all that is true—all that is light.

Seniors Compete For High Scores on NMSQT

One windy March day, over 200 seniors cast off their morning weariness and sailed into harbor Number 111 to face the portals of a new challenge—the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test. The NMSQT is the first important step toward becoming a finalist or receiving a Letter of Commendation. In the fall, those who took the test received their scores, the highest being named semifinalists. Of these, ninety-eight per cent advanced to finalist status and entered the national competition for unsponsored as well as college and company-sponsored scholarships. Of the 14,000 finalists, 1600 received financial aid ranging from $100 to $1500 a year. In 1966, 20 seniors overcame this Charybdis of National Merit competition—13 receiving a Letter of Commendation and 7 named as finalists.

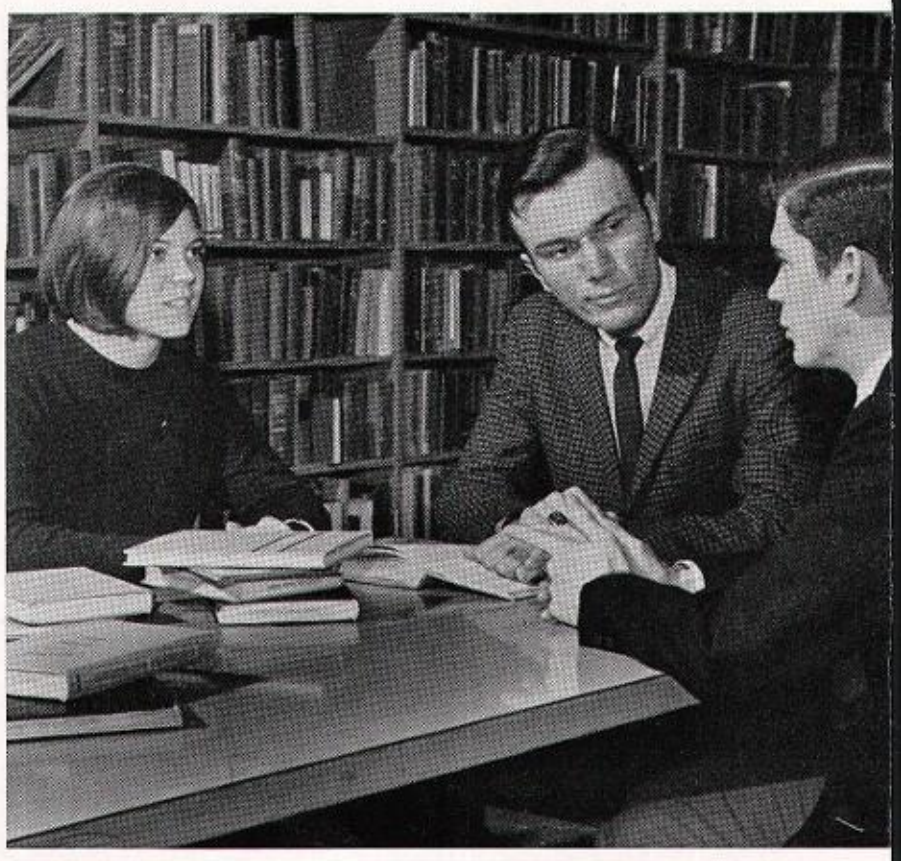
Seniors Set Sails for Final Year

Class meetings, officer elections, and committee appointments highlighted fall activities for seniors. Officers planned class meetings and supervised functions of committees. Chairmen provided the leadership in their own area of endeavor—Bucky Harris, prom; Bruce Lamb, cap and gown; Dennis Strank, flower and motto. All of the '66 class prepared for the zenith of their high-school careers—graduation. The final week preceding commencement included the gala prom, parties, a picnic at Cedar Point, and baccalaureate. Lakewood High has, in the broadest sense, been an excellent teacher but the task of preparing for the future has only begun. The future will always become the present and we must be prepared for that present—prepared in mind and ready in spirit for what the winds of fate may lay before us.



Class speakers Fichter, Strank, and Parrish develop topics under general theme: "Antidote for an Age of Violence" (Coch absent)

The Winds of Fate . . .

Humanity is our interest . . .

Cultivation of true values depends on a wise use of leisure.
Each individual needs to enjoy ways to use his own special aptitudes, and to increase his social awareness and compassion for people.
In our many clubs and sports,
a variety of such ways are possible for every student.

'Tis the set of the soul
That decides its goal . . .
More than . . . the Winds of Fate.

Astronomers Probe Secrets of the Heavens

Astronomy Demonstrator—Tolhurst • Inner Circle—Chamot, Deutsch, Quellos, Cullen, Smith • Outer Circle—Tubalkain, Ferguson, Fabri, Griffin, Root, Flynn, Leitold, Kovach.

Astronomy Club set its course by the stars this year as the newest addition to Lakewood High School's wide range of activities. The brilliant idea came from the minds of two LHS students, Dennis Griffin and Gary Tolhurst. With the help of Mr. Alton Yarian they opened a galaxy of opportunities to young astronomers. Since the beginning, club activities have expanded to include outings to the Warner and Swasey Observatory and the Cuyahoga Astronomy Club. Some members who have their own telescopes have tried photographing the heavens. These pictures are then discussed at meetings which are held in the Planetarium. The starry-eyed scientists also give service to the school by helping at public showings in the Planetarium.

Student Council Promotes School Activities

Making money and boosting school spirit can go hand-in-hand as Student Council proved again this year. They sponsored the annual magazine drive in the fall, doubling last year's totals. They brought the New Community Singers in November to give an evening program at the Lakewood Civic Auditorium. Then for handling the publicity for the student production of "The Music Man," they received one-third of the profits. Student Council endorsed the establishment of "The Cell," student teen center, and again sponsored "Go LHS" week.

1966 Cinema Sets Sails for a Special Port

Capturing the year forever, and making a special niche for Lakewood High School is Cinema's goal. The 1966 story was started in May, 1965, with selection of a staff. For the first time the editors traveled to the junior high schools to give freshmen the opportunity to get an early start. The theme was the springboard to development. The instant we heard a quote in a speech by Dr. L. J. Horton at Ohio University, we knew we had our theme. The search ended—our sails were set. With "The Winds of Fate" as the theme, Co-Editors Pat Wade and Greg Binford planned the book. With the assistance of Miss Gertrude McTaggart, adviser, and Mr. Russell Benson, design artist, plans took shape and production was underway. After Pat's death it was hard for production to proceed, but there was a story to be told in the manner Pat had helped plan.

At editorial board meetings conducted by Greg Binford, editor, section editors give progress reports which clear the air of some of the harassing problems: Hopkins, Boyer, Bump, Juba, Hoffmeister, Paul, Primosch, Binford, Miss McTaggart, Compter, and McKinnell

Both advertising and business staffs keep an accounting vigil on the Cinema's treasury: Mr. Orie Yoder, advertising adviser, Mahoney, Kauffman, Muir, Commarato, Mullin, Simon, Robinson, Nichols, Knaggs, Mr. George Platt, business adviser, and Thompson

Picture idents and correct spelling of names require intense care: Lohrey, Lorenz, Harris, Reichard, Gibson, Greenfield, and Overall

Pictures emerge from busy schedules, interviews, and ingenuity: Robinson, Rettberg, Bennett, Knapp, Barnes, Cook

Personal conferences with an experienced editor are valuable learning experiences for a cub: Donna Brown, Gary Cornely

High Times Has 30 Sailings Every Year

The Lakewood High Times sets its sails every week to inform, entertain, and stimulate its readers. When one edition is finally put to bed, another must be nearing its stages of completion. Every minute is spent circulating, digging, observing, reporting, and suggesting. It is not an easy task to check the pulse of 2500 people weekly. The Times somehow accomplishes its great goal and in an All-American award-winning manner. In addition to its activities at home, the Times actively represents Lakewood High School in the Journalism Association of Ohio Schools. In November 1965, Karen Lamoreux was elected president of JAOS. The Times and the people who comprise it carry on the tradition of creating that special niche for LHS.

With Linotype operator, Mr. Charles Childers, Times Editorial Board members congregate around the archaic press to behold the weekly miracle: Brown, Miss Mary Smagola, Mullen, Rueppel, Farkas, Lamoreux, Green, Kruse, Flight, Zimmerman, Mr. Childers

Phoenix Inspires Creativity

Fall Phoenix editors strove to promote and insure the magazine as a traditional part of the students' publications. Spring editors, Gail Rudd, Marcia Warren, Karen Lamoreux, and Pamela Ptacek, tried to continue the Phoenix standard of presenting the best creative works, literary and artistic, contributed by individual students.

Engrossing duties of Phoenix editors who assemble Mondays and Wednesdays are reading submissions by students and then accepting or rejecting them as shown by fall editors Robert Kimple, Donna Kmiecik, Christine Bura, Christine Luse, and Shirley Skellenger

Experience Is Its Own Reward in NFL

National Forensic League teaches aspiring speakers how to express themselves as effectively as possible. During the year members competed in speech tournaments and debates with most of the schools in the LEL. On the television program, "Young America Speaks," Debbie Sulteen and John Price dramatized excerpts from "Rebecca" and "Green Pastures," respectively. Members performed before various classes during the LEL Festival at Valley Forge High School. Paul Delucco, Greg Mellott, Naomi Serwatka, Anne Miller, John Price, and Andy Watts participated in the districts.

Barnstormers Excel in Varied Productions

Barnstormers' biggest single effort of the year was "I Remember Mama" in which long hours and hard work by director and actors paid off in an impressive production. Members of Barnstormers and the choirs combined their talents to present "Music Man" for two full houses. After directing these two successes, Mr. Arthur Moore took a break and Mr. Richard Meadows used his theatrical experience to direct "Trojan Women," a Greek tragedy by Euripedes. Regular meetings included several one-act plays produced and directed by members. Mr. Moore gave a demonstration of lighting techniques and showed slides of settings.

Thespians Promote High Quality Dramatics

"Act well your part, there all the honor lies" is the motto of the National Thespian Society, Troupe 472. Thespians is the "elite" group of Barnstormers, for they are the most active participants in Barnstormer plays and have earned the most points. Each point represents twenty or thirty hours of work on these plays either backstage or onstage. Thespians are inducted twice a year, this year's membership being fifteen. The spring induction ceremony was a formal affair in the Tryout Theater including the lighting of candles, an explanation of the development of the dramatic arts, and some music. Thespians try to promote better dramatic productions and generate enthusiasm in theatrics.

Friendship Clubs Have Fun All Year: Go With Us

A needle's eye is wide enough for two friends;
The whole world is too narrow for two foes.

—PERSIAN PROVERB

Only one club tries to spin a web of friendship, to intertwine sophomore, junior, and senior girls with the ideals of the YWCA. Friendship does this through service projects and meetings on football to fashions, each stressing a different facet of the theme, "Look out the window; what do you see?"

Character Developed Through Hi-Y

Creating and maintaining good moral character is an important part of the activities in the Hi-Y program. The club's activities develop its members mentally, spiritually, physically, and socially. Chapters sponsor dances, pancake breakfasts, and other affairs to pay for such outings as weekend ski trips and a business meeting at the Rolling "Y" Ranch in Carrollton, Ohio. By selling refreshments at the Faculty-Harlem Hobo basketball game, the tenth-grade chapter furnished a service for the school. Youth-in-Government, held at the state capital each year, gives the boys a better knowledge of our state government. Speakers, movies, and special dinners round out the year's entertainment.

In early September seven Hi-Y members spent an exciting and action-packed weekend campout at the Hinckley Lake Reservoir

Benefits From Business Trips

At the monthly meetings of Hi-Commercial, speakers from business organizations often related information not only practical for people in business but also usable in everyday life. One such speaker, Mrs. I. McCallum from the Ohio Bell Telephone Company, stressed the importance of good diction and low tones in the correct use of the telephone. Using humorous cartoons, she showed how a voice might sound to the person at the other end of the line. To obtain practice in business procedures, the club sponsored their annual U. S. Savings Stamp drive in February to encourage students to aid their country and insure the future.

Informal Excursions Lead Hi-Art to Creativity

Hi-Art Guild, formed to help its members enjoy and appreciate fine arts, visited the Cleveland Art Museum and the Cleveland Institute of Art. An informal group, their main objective was to get ideas for later club discussions. On the bus ride home, while eating their individually-prepared box lunches, they exchanged bits of information on their observations at the museums. In another away-meeting, they visited Hixon's art gallery. There they observed some of the newest trends in art and used them in many of their projects to raise funds, one of which was a private showing of the movie "The Agony and the Ecstasy" at the Palace.

Active Volunteers Promote Community Welfare

Both individually and through organizations, students participate in community life and jobs. Individual volunteers go into the community to help in the work at hospitals, nursing homes, and homes for older persons. Girls under the title of candy-stripers frequently are helpers in snack bars and gift shops while boys often do custodial work. In group activity, members of the Youth Council on World Affairs acquire a direct knowledge of civic responsibility. From inner-city tours and city-wide meetings and discussions, they widen their understanding of today's problems. Particularly, they seek to promote better racial and religious relations.

Nursing homes and hospitals welcome high-school helpers such as Geri Baker who devotes many hours each week in such work

Future Teachers Explore Trends in Education

When FTAers say let's go exploring, they really mean it! In consideration of the many possibilities in the teaching profession, Future Teachers of America carried out a program of research. At the opening meeting Assistant Superintendent Dr. Paul Spayde presented a wide view of teaching and counseling on different levels. At following meetings several speakers showed slides of countries in Europe and the Belgium Congo, giving a picture of educational opportunities abroad. Other speakers gave advice on how to meet various teaching situations such as a teacher's first year and problems in special education. Finally, volunteers attended the Greater Cleveland District FTA meetings at the Cleveland Board of Education.

FHA Promotes Interest in Home and Community

Organized to promote a growing appreciation in the joys and satisfactions of homemaking, Future Homemakers of America provides stimulating programs for its members. Speakers are invited to present a variety of topics. This year's plans include a woman from Carson's to speak on purchasing and coordinating outfits, a lesson on the use of makeup by a consultant of a leading cosmetic firm, and demonstrations by employees of the East Ohio Gas Company on the use and care of gas appliances. Decorating the Rockport Nursing Home with paper window ornaments and small angels at Christmas gives each girl the gratifying feeling of helping others. Volunteer Daily Service

Every day the members of the Library Staff perform such daily duties as stamping books, filing, sending notices, taking reserves, collecting fines, putting new covers on books, making attractive bulletin boards, and working in the paperback bookstore. In addition to their clerical duties, some girls are stationed in the workroom, where they paste and mend books. A responsible person who can afford time from a study hall is eligible to become a member of Library Staff. This year fifty-two students aided librarians in keeping the library a helpful part of Lakewood High School life.

Staffers Seek to Satisfy Student Appetites

Little limelight illuminates the work of the L-Room Staff. Their daily assignment for manning the snackbar keeps requests from the refreshment-seeking multitudes satisfied. Cries of hunger from the after-school throngs are met with quick action and quicker smiles. Present at all after-game dances, and at most in-the-gym functions, these volunteers keep the demands of crowds appeased while benefiting further the school's image with displays of real school spirit and true integrity.

Gearing gusto into gaiety under guidance is the purpose and promise of the Social Committee. The members of this club are the initial planners and principal promoters of major school festivities throughout the year. Their work really begins late in August when most students are still enjoying their summer vacations. These dedicated members arrange to meet together in order to decide on the goals of the coming year. They began by choosing a theme for the first all-school event, coordinating their objectives with their resources. Among key events organized for the coming year, were the "Welcome" dance for sophomores, a Thanksgiving dance, an annual winter ball, a St. Valentine's dance, and the announcing of the new May Queen.

Projectionists Assist With Instruction Material

Every day, projectionists help teachers with supplementary lesson aids. At monthly meetings senior members train apprentices to operate movie projectors, slide projectors, and record players. For every service a boy performs, he receives credit according to a point system. As he increases his number of points, he is graduated from apprentice to a junior, and then he receives the topmost position on the staff, that of senior member.

Lens and Shutter Stresses Originality in Work

Photographers furnish interest and a camera to become a member of Lens and Shutter Club, while extra equipment, instruction, and darkroom facilities are supplied by the school. This year a permanent collection was assembled to start a file for future years. Photography provides recreation for some and a prospective career for others, but nurtures the seed of creativity in all it touches.

Trainees Learn Picture-Processing Tactics

Photo Staff is the production photography facility from which Times and many Cinema pictures come. Staff photographers cover sports, dances, special events, and publicity for the school. Prints are made to order from film developed in the darkroom for publications. Each semester, poster-portraits are taken for candidates to Student Council offices. The staff also serves as assistants to Mr. Russell Benson, the Cinema's professional photographer.

Efficient Student Staff Assists Cafeteria Workers

Whether dishing out ice cream or ringing up bills, these unsung heroes of the cafeteria staff do their jobs without a whimper. Latin Club: Educational and Entertaining

This year members of the Latin Club explored the uses of Latin in our modern world. Making their annual trip to the planetarium for a talk by Mr. Alton Yarian, they viewed stars and constellations with names of Latin origin. Sophomore Nick Miraldi told about his trip to Italy taken last summer, discussing Italian customs, language, and dress. At the Christmas meeting a group presented a short Roman skit, followed by the singing of carols such as "Adeste Fideles" in Latin. As they left, they bid each other "Io Saturnalia" which means "Merry Christmas." Other meetings gave further knowledge and enjoyment through movies and slides on Roman life. Mr. Arthur Moore shared pictures of his trip to Europe, explaining such things as the Forum, relics, and Roman statues.

French Club Wages War—Is Victorious

War was declared on the French Club early this fall by the German Club. Because of inherited dislikes and conflicts in obtaining the desired rooms for club meetings, the two clubs waged war. From time to time the "Maginot Line," denoted by masking tape, could be seen on the floor of the main hall between rooms 127 and 128. Battles took place in various forms such as a volleyball game which the French Club won. Because of the German Club's defeat, the French Club sent them a "CARE" package which included items from a toothbrush to a copy of the "Marseillaise." The annual French festival, Mardi Gras, could not take place because the German Club reserved the L-Room for a German celebration. They were kind enough to invite French Club members, though. In May a play was put on to raise money for an orphanage in southern France.

Spanish Club Adds Latin-American Students

El Club Espanol attracts many students to its gay and informal meetings. Early in the year, Doris Acuna, foreign exchange student from Peru, led a question-answer session in her native Spanish language. Highlighting the first-semester events was the annual fiesta in December with its colorful pinata, tasty refreshments, and festive songs. Later in the year, a special trip to a Mexican restaurant gave club members an opportunity to sample the hot, spicy tamales and tortillas. Club activities made four Latin-American students feel at home.

Parties Influence German Club Activities for Year

Although many of the German Club members went to see "Faust" at the Deutsches Kino in Cleveland, parties mainly dominated the club's year. A Christmas tea in December sparked the club on to other joyous occasions like the picnic at Lakewood Park in the spring, to which the Latin, French, and Spanish clubs were invited. In order to show their friendliness in the language dispute, German Club welcomed French Club members to the Fauschingfest in February. Evidence of good-natured friction showed in the volleyball, basketball, and swimming meets. German students and club members learned about Switzerland from narrative talks given by Herr Schmon, the Swiss aide. His six weeks' stay in Lakewood proved very helpful to club programs.

Senior Choir Upholds Fine Singing Tradition

Continuing Lakewood High School's tradition of fine singing, Senior Choir gave concerts for many enthusiastic audiences. They seemed to soar to new heights this year under Mr. T. R. Evans' inimitable direction. During the Yule season they sang for the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs before their annual Christmas concert in the civic auditorium. The highlight of the evening came when the choir alumni in the audience crowded onto the stage to join in the last three numbers. The finale with combined choirs and the alumni produced a tremendous harmonic effect in "Alleluia." In March, they participated in the LEL Festival, held in the Cleveland Heights' High School auditorium. At several school assemblies, they added the necessary musical touch. To round out the year, they gave concerts at each of the three junior highs.

Junior Choir Fills Year With Song

Diligently building a repertoire for their annual pre-Christmas appearance, Junior Choir finished the first semester with many successful concerts, including a performance from Halle's mezzanine as well as the traditional Christmas concert. They sang at Lakewood's tree burning ceremony on Twelfth Night. Second semester sent them hustling and bustling toward even higher goals. Members competed in ensembles for the privilege of entering the District Solo and Ensemble Competition. Many individuals worked on solos. Under the helpful guidance of Miss Ulah Gilmore, the choir finished a full year with the spring concert, a Lenten church performance, and the annual Baccalaureate service.

Whirl of Events Demonstrate Orchestral Talents

Passing students heard snatches of anything from the catchy tunes of "Music Man" to the thunderous notes of "The Russian Sailors' Dance" issuing from orchestra rehearsals. Hard work produced three formal concerts and a humanities program. Airing regal fanfares was a percussion and antiphonal brass ensemble. Individuals received scholarships and joined regional and state orchestras, while groups entered the State Solo-Ensemble Contest.

Canadians Exchange Visits With Band

Full sections blended tones in intensive practice to make this year's concert band one of the finest the school has had, according to band director, Mr. Richard Strang. In March, Lakewood High School was host to a band from Peterborough, Canada. Later in the spring the band returned the compliment with a concert at Peterborough during their Canadian tour. Performances in the annual spring concert, in school assemblies, and at the three junior high schools accustomed the band members to different audiences. Culminating the year was a performance at the opening game of the Indians.

Junior Band Trains Musicians

Junior band members learn the tricks of the trade. They practice coordinating their instruments with others in the band to obtain rich sound. Yale Snubs Harvard In Spirited Traditional Battle Spirit permeated the air. Even faculty members took up new allegiances. Team insignias festooned suit coats and blouses alike. PA announcements generated added excitement. Thursday, February 3, students flocked into the boys' gym to see two all-star basketball teams battle for the intramural championship. Led by cheerleaders, they roared out encouragement to their favorite team. Line-ups had resulted from filtering players through the intramural system of student-organized teams. Captains and officials then voted participants to positions on teams of the all-star sub-tournament. Performance in the sub-tournament elected them to either the Yale or Harvard team, formed of players top-notch in skill and spirit. Tension rose. The final buzzer resolved a 35-29 score favoring Yale. Both teams played a fast, sprightly game.

Athletic Awards Result From Enthusiasm and Skill

Athletic Awards (Lakewood Shield, L-Pin, and L-Medal) give participants in any and all phases of physical education a goal. Paralleling academic citations, the girl well-rounded athletically receives one or more awards. They prove that her efforts and enthusiasm are recognized. Such incentives interest many girls in participating in the vast extracurricular and intramural program. This affords them an intensive knowledge of game rules and skill in almost all phases of physical education. A girl receives 50 points for attending over half of tournament games. If her team wins the championship, a bonus 25 points are awarded. Aspiring Tankateers and major modern dancers earn points for trying out. The coveted Medal is awarded for 900 accumulative points; the L-Pin and L-Shield are 600 and 300 accumulative points respectively.

LC Officers, Board Defers Cadet Selection in '65

October tryouts and Friday morning instructions revolutionized procedures for selecting and preparing Cadets for eventual induction in Lakewood Girls' Leaders Club. Under supervision of President Sue Pickett, officers, and Leaders' Board, September tryouts were discontinued to assure sophomores and new upperclassmen a wider knowledge of Leaders' goals and procedures. Selected under the new system, Cadets attended compulsory Friday morning instruction in obligations and duties. Athletic Board Oversees Intramural Setup Encompassing all aspects of physical education is Athletic Board. It is composed of twenty-four members, each assigned to manage a seasonal sport and intramural activity. The board sponsored the Dance Show, "Surrealism in Sound," the Tank Show, all-star games of hockey Black vs. Blue, basketball Harvard vs. Yale, and volleyball Purple vs. Gold. Athletic Board set up each tournament intramural system and assigned officiating duties. For the first time last year, a February Athletic Award Dessert recognized Award winners, Cadets to be inducted as Leaders, and players on first-semester all-star teams before peers and parents.

Mr. William James Scullion was both coach and counselor to the boys on his squads. In 1935, "Jim" Scullion began his career coaching football at Olmsted Falls and in 1940, he moved to Orange to take over the reins as head football mentor. He came to Lakewood in 1943 as head swimming coach and assistant football coach. In ten years as head grid mentor, beginning in 1950, he led the Rangers to four LEL championships. An illness in 1960 forced him to exchange football for swimming and golf. He led the tankers to a state title in 1961.

Underclassmen Shine in Mediocre Grid Season

A consistently tough defense, a generally good offense, and "some mental mistakes" combined to hand the Ranger gridmen a 3-4 league record. Excellent performances by both upper and lower classmen thrilled the fans and sparked a ray of hope for next year. Senior team captain and center Greg Horndeski and senior guard John Brindle were "all-LEL" choices while senior tackle John Brandt made Plain Dealer Dream Team. Junior quarterback Dan DiBiasio was fifth in the league at passing with 497 yards. Junior Bob Muir, the leading receiver, latched on to seventeen aerials for 160 yards. Finally, sophomore fullback Bill Skrovan, the squad's leading scorer, was third in the LEL with 42 points. An unbelievable comeback over Valley Forge highlighted the season. The magic formula included a ten-yard touchdown scamper by Scott McDowell, an outside-kick recovery by Steve Lempner, and a thirty-two yard field goal by Shestina with only six seconds remaining.

JV's Share Title After Crucial Last-Game Win

One of the best teams ever, the JV gridders shared the LEL championship with Shaw this season. Posting a 6-1 record, head coach Lee Boyer cited balance and depth as major factors in the jayvees' superb showing. The JV's also capitalized on their opponents' mistakes as they recovered an unusually large number of fumbles and picked off numerous passes. "Tremendous jobs" came from quarterbacks Mark Heideloff and Karl Schwenkel, fullback Dave Mack, halfback Fred Benson, and end Gary Dvorak. Assistant coach Allen Lindsay praised Jeff Brindle, Tony Hoty, and Linc Chamot for consistent efforts.

Dave Reid
Romps to a State Championship

Led by unbeaten cross-country ace Dave Reid, Ranger harriers ended a very rewarding year in third place with a 5-2 record. Reid broke all the old Lakewood records and set many new ones. At the LEL meet with a record time of 10:06.8, he led his teammates to a third place while at the St. Joseph invitational meet he led the squad to a fifth place with his record time of 9:50.8. In post-season competition, the harriers placed 14th in a field of thirty-seven top teams in the state meet at Columbus. Again Reid took top honors with a time of 9:31.3 while Dan Coch raced in 15th of the 259 runners. Coach Norman Brown said he was well pleased with the fine running of Rudi Hufnagl, Dave Hogg, Stan Laybourne, Art Fedoruk, and Al Yeckel. With two good seasons as impetus and with sufficient talent remaining, there is optimism about the success of next year's squad among its nucleii.

Rackets Swing as Netters Improve Season Record

Ranger netmen battled rugged competition in the LEL as they posted a 2-5 season record. Coach Glen Salzbrenner centered action around returning lettermen Bruce McKendry and Bruce Arnesen, who played first and second singles respectively; and first doubles players, Bill Buckley and Tom Mecredy. Second doubles consisted of Tim Pfaff and Mike Kepic. As this was the first year for a JV team, both juniors and sophomores had a chance to learn to play and develop the skills needed for varsity competition. McKendry, Buckley, and Pfaff will return to form the nucleus of next year's squad.

Cagers Miss Basket in Dead-Eye LEL

Ranger cagers ended the season with a 5-13 overall mark which was a little disappointing to Coach John Piper. Improvement was the main theme of the Rangers this year as they attempted to avenge many of their early season losses the second time around. The team formed around senior pivotman Alex Dadas. Not only was Dadas the third highest scorer in the LEL, but he also received Plain Dealer Dream Team, Cleveland Press PresStar, and "All-LEL" ratings. Senior guard Jim Betonte also received a Dream Team rating. Also making commendable performances were senior forward George Baran, and junior guards Dan DiBiasio and Scott McDowell. The highlight of the year was holding 6'5" Jim Wolf of Valley Forge, LEL's high scorer, to zero in the season's finale. The cagers lost to Rocky River in sectional play by a score of 45-60.

JV Cagers Learn Fundamentals

Teaching the boys sound fundamentals and developing good varsity players was the challenge of first-year JV Coach John Zimmerman as he guided the junior Rangers to a second-place finish in the LEL. The cagers posted a 9-5 LEL record and boosted their overall record to 10-7 with independent clashes against Bay Village, West Tech, and Cuyahoga Falls. Juniors Bob Muir, Paul Lindgren, and Gerry Schumann sparked the team in their season contests. Al Krist and Stu Shestina tied for high season average with 17 points a game.

Individuals Develop Favorite Gymnastic Skills

As a kind of independent study class in boys' physical education, the tumbling team provides an opportunity for interested individuals to expand skills in gymnastics. Tumbling is not competitive; members are encouraged to choose and develop special talents or interests in tricks on unicycles, mini-tramps, trampolines, ropes, rings, parallel bars, or the horse. Since few other schools in the LEL have organized tumbling groups, there is no inter-scholastic competition. Many tumblers, however, work out at the "Y" and participate in AAU "Y"-meets. This year the tumbling team performed at Barton Center, at the Masonic Temple, for the Golden Agers, and during basketball halftimes.

Varsity Has Hard Season

Plagued by injuries to many key wrestlers, the varsity squad was unable to find a winning formula in a league which produced six state champions this year. Several grapplers had outstanding records: John Green (138) 6-2-2, Pat Fitzgerald (154) 6-1, and John Brindle (165) 10-2. Four wrestlers entered the district tournament as Brindle went on to state, in which he took an unofficial seventh place.

JV's Win Six

The junior varsity team, guided by first-year wrestling coach Mr. Don Cole, grappled to a 6-5 season record. Close wins were attributed to the outstanding performances of juniors Steve Froberg (175), who went undefeated in 11 JV matches, Ed Mraz (120), and Dan Hoffman (145). Sophomores Bob Parrish (127), Dennis Janez (133), and George Karnarvas (138) beat many of their tough LEL foes.

High-point and third-year letterman Bruce Lamb finishes the first of four laps in the grueling 200-yard individual medley

Pence Wins State, Mermen Splash to LEL Second

Left coachless twice—first, by the death of Mr. James Scullion and, later, by the midseason retirement of Mr. Russell Linden, the swimmers still managed an LEL second under the helm of Coach Daniel Wolf. Opening the season with a win over state champion Cleveland Heights, the team beat Shaker in its own pool. They continued the season with wins over Euclid, Shaw, Berea, and a second victory over Shaker. Several new school records were set during the season. Among these were Bruce Lamb's for the 100-yard freestyle, Jim Pence's in the 100-yard breaststroke, and Gary Zimmerman's pool and school record in diving. Gary topped state champion Artie Rowe's '63 total. The swimmers wound up their season with an upset victory over powerful Fairview. Bruce Lamb won the 100-yard freestyle, beating Fairview ace Ed Bettendorf with a time of 50.0. Other swimmers who consistently contributed valuable points to the contest were Glenn Dorsch, Bill Winters, Fred Kloots, Clark Kimball, Tom Mecredy, Ron Matsui.

Indoor Trackmen Race Around Boards to Victory

The indoor track team ran in the victory column this season as they posted a 5-4 dual meet record. Beating Lincoln to open the season, the runners scampered on to down Glenville, West, Valley Forge, and Rocky River. Losses were to John Adams, St. Joseph, Shaker, and East Tech. Leading the squad was winningest Ranger trackman Dave Reid, who set a new state record for the mile run with a time of 4:23.8 at the Knights of Columbus meet. Other consistent point-makers were distance and relay runners Rudi Hufnagl, Fred Shreiber, John Parrish, Dan Coch, Stan Laybourne, shot-putter Mike Welsh, and hurdler Steve Lempner, Encouraged, directed, and promoted to greater heights by track mentor Antel, the squad can expect to meet the challenge of sun and cinders as they move outdoors as soon as weather permits.

Individuals Stand Out in Outstanding Season

"Sparkling" was the keyword for Ranger thinclads this season as they copped a league second with a 5-2 dual meet record. In other competition the trackmen took second place in both the Sandusky Relays and the LEL Meet, and a fourth in the Marion Relays. The Rangers had excellent talent in all departments. Two-miler Dan Coch held the best time in Ohio at 9:49.6. Other record-breakers were Bill Krejci, high jump; Bob Smith, discus; Rudi Hufnagl, 440-yard run; Doug Ford, Dave Reid, Fred Schreiber, and Hufnagl, medley relay; and Doug McKay, Reid, Ford and Coch, four-mile relay. In state competition Rick Gosson, one of the "top ten" putters in the country, placed fourth. He also holds the best distance in Ohio this year at 60'5". Captain Ford took a state fourth in the half-mile as Reid, fastest Ohio junior, won second place in the mile.

Linksmen Post Fourth in Rougher LEL

Battling to a 4-3 league and 5-9 overall record, Ranger linksmen ended an exciting golf season by taking a fourth place in the LEL, the district meet, and the LEL tournament. Although last year's squad placed higher in the league standings, team scores for the two years were about the same. Said late coach James Scullion, "Everybody else (competition) was tougher this year." Some individual averages were B. Scullion (41.4), Smetzer (41.8), Salay (44.3), Wille (45.4), and Lamb (44.6), who also had the lowest single score at 36. Smetzer was voted team captain for the next year. Due to the untimely death of Mr. James Scullion, Mr. John Piper has taken over the reins as golf mentor.

Diamondmen Clip Wings of St. Edward's Eagles

Lakewood's victory celebration will have to wait for another year as the diamondmen turned in an 8-13 season mark. The Ranger LEL victories were over Euclid, 4-1; Shaw, 5-4; and Brush, 4-0. The high point of the team's season was a 10-2 triumph over tough St. Edward in an independent game. Coach Don Harwood's nine bombed St. Ed's best pitcher, who had previously thrown two no-hitters and several shutouts. Best player awards were won by Rick Walsh for defense and Tom Harmon for offense. Junior Cliff O'Dell copped the year's best all-around player. Coach James Cregar's junior varsity had some fine pitching from Dan McKee, Craig Phillips, and George Lewis. The JV's played excellent ball in every game, but were subdued in the final innings. They closed the season with a 1-11 record, the lone win over Cleveland Heights.

Ghoulardi Challenges Faculty for Charity

Curious students filled the boys' gym to witness the eventful basketball match between our illustrious team, the sparkling LHS faculty, and the Channel 8 Ghoulardi All-Stars. Madras-clad cheerleaders, alias women faculty volunteers, pepped up a strong pro-faculty cheering section. Team points rose rapidly (?!!), but the faculty managed a 38 to 33 victory. As good losers, the Ghoulardi All-Stars shed no tears since both teams tried to break as many of the game rules as possible and to out-cheat the other, all to the amusement of the 1500 motley spectators. Mr. Anthony DiBiasio tried to console the losers after a game "well-played" by presenting the "Purple Knif" with the "Good-Guy" trophy.

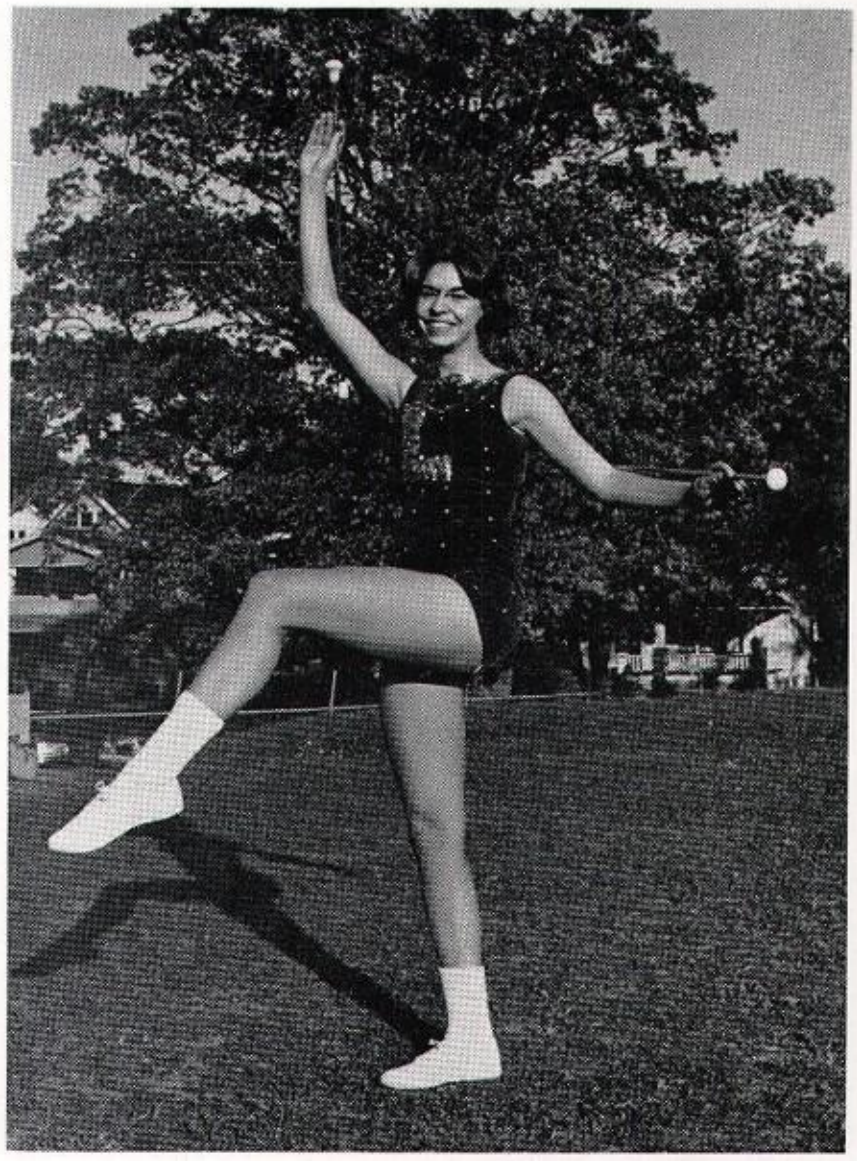
Cheerleaders Kindle Flame of Enthusiasm

"Fight, team, fight!" Frolicking in brisk fall air, six varsity cheerleaders lifted their megaphones in mittened hands to boost our team on to many victories. Basketball season brought the girls indoors in their crisp, neat uniforms. Encouraging the boys to "Fight! Fight! a little harder," shouts of support to the team echoed throughout the gym. The cheerleaders promoted the "GO LHS" week by collecting a truck-load of toys for underprivileged children. Honoring the football team during "Spirit Day," the girls sparked enthusiasm at the pep rally assembly. Under the direction of Miss Adell Kleinecke, varsity and junior varsity cheerleaders perfected new and old routines by daily practice.

In traditional "L" formation are junior varsity cheerleaders Ewing, Patterson, Walther, Morse, Fraunfelder, and Mould

Judy Kassouf Highlights Halftime Routines

With the added attraction of feature twirler Judy Kassouf, halftimes during the football season were enlivened by her specialty of two fire batons. Her many titles include "World Champion" in her age group. Also marching in unison to the spirited music of the LHS band were the majorettes who reflected in rhythmic motion the excitement of football games at the beginning and during the half. At this time, they presented original routines, this year's most popular being the "Pink Panther." The majorettes, under the direction of Mr. Strang, added sparkle and zest to rallies and concerts.



Through constant practice of complicated routines, Judy Kassouf has obtained the National Senior Two-Baton Championship

My Friends—
Ya Got Trouble Right Here!

School activity this year centered around "The Music Man." Combining the various efforts of ninety-nine people, the entire production was slowly pieced together, like a giant jig-saw puzzle. As the weeks of rehearsal passed, the big picture came into view. Costumes were fitted and an entire wardrobe was assembled. Make-up was organized and applied several times during dress rehearsals. Members of the props committee gleaned huge amounts of articles while the stage crew diligently assembled River City, Iowa. As the last days of rehearsal neared, townspeople and principal actors grew excited and anxious; they worked earnestly toward the culmination of their efforts—a perfect performance. Opening night was here—Success!

High Quality Dairy Products

. . . and Dependable Service

To get better dairy products, start with something better. The thousands of gallons of milk that are shipped daily into the clean, modern Dairymen's Ohio Farmers plant come from practically the same carefully selected dairy farmers every day of the year.

What better insurance could there be for dairy products that are always so uniformly good?

The 1965 Cinema, edited by Tom Loehr and Lynn Pastis again merited the NSPA All-American award and the CSPA Medalist.

The 1966 staff gratefully thanks . . .

MISS GERTRUDE MCTAGGART	our adviser who skillfully guided our ship with endless patience and knowledge
MR. RUSSELL BENSON	our photographer and design consultant, a friend who helped us an infinite number of times
MR. CHARLES CHILDERS	compositor who patiently set all our type and made up panel and ad pages
MR. GEORGE PLATT	who directed the sales campaign as business adviser
MR. ORIE YODER	advertsing adviser and our link with commercial friends
MR. RALPH ROOD	and his darkroom staff, who helped us with our pictures
MR. RALPH TELFER	printshop director, who supervised the final check of page galleys before shipment
MR. MAHLON POVENMIRE	who consistently provided assistance and understanding

Our Commercial Associates, link with the technical world

And so ends the story of the 1965-1966 year at Lakewood High School. Like any year at any place, it has given us our share of grief and joy, triumph and defeat, pleasant interludes and moments of decision. Now, clearly we see

'Tis the set of the soul
That decides its goal . . .
More than . . . the Winds of Fate.
